

Churchill Blasts Devaluation As Disaster; Demands Election

Places Full Blame For British Plight On Socialist Rule

LONDON (UP)—Winston Churchill today denounced devaluation as a "disaster" and demanded an early general election to give the British people a chance to oust the Labor government.

"The hour is grave," the Conservative leader and wartime Prime Minister told the House of Commons. He ripped into the Socialist regime with all the vigor of his famous wartime speeches.

Cheered wildly when he rose to speak on the second day of debate on devaluation, Churchill said three things called for a quick election—the financial crisis, the party conflict, and the atomic bomb.

"Over all these looms the atomic bomb which the Russians have got before the British, though happily not before the Americans," he told the House and the jammed galleries.

Churchill placed the full blame for Britain's plight on what he called the Socialist government's squandering of the country's resources.

"We are brought to the verge of national and international bankruptcy," he said.

"The blunt, hard, simple conclusion remains—devaluation cannot be a good thing, and we have suffered a serious disaster."

He said he would have set the pound free on the world markets to find its own level.

Tolling off one by one his indictments of the Labor regime, Churchill warned that Britons now would have to draw more on "the spirit and carcass" to win back the same amount of food and other commodities.

"We are not in a state of health to become a blood-donor on a large scale at the present time," he said. "We are already a blood donor on a tremendous scale through our unrequired exports."

Makes Tariff Against U.S.

Devaluation, he said, in its effect on European and sterling currencies, erected a 40 per cent tariff wall around them against the United States.

"I do not suppose that the United States, this gigantic capitalist organization with a vast abundance of productive power and with millions of people animated by the profit motive, will be seriously injured by a moderate wire fence placed around the British Empire and the sterling area," he commented.

"I cannot see that the American manufacturers will see any inducement to reduce their own protective tariffs which are backed up with potent political interest."

Churchill voiced amazement at Sir Stafford Cripps' about-face on devaluation. He suggested the thought that Cripps should resign in the face of it unless he thought the government would not last much longer.

Laborites interrupted repeatedly as Churchill drove home his points. It was an unusually noisy sitting. At one point when a Laborite complained about Churchill's attack on Cripps, he retorted:

"I pick my own epithets with care, and I have a large selection of them."

He said Cripps' opposition to a free pound was expected, since "it is obvious that anything that is free and largely uncontrolled is obnoxious to the Socialists."

He referred to 1931, when

Britain went off the gold standard, and said it was the "last time we had to clear up a Socialist financial mess." An uproar from the labor benches prompted him to remark:

"You laugh, but you had little to laugh at in 1931." "The timing of the step was obviously wrong," Churchill said of devaluation. "The drastic alteration in the exchange rate, if necessary, should not have been left until the crisis broke upon us. It should have been taken in anticipation of it."

He said Cripps finally was forced "higgledy-piggledy" into action. "Ordinary people find it difficult to understand how a man of his knowledge and reputation for integrity should have turned completely around like a squirrel in its cage against his former convictions and do what he repeatedly said he would never do," Churchill said. "He stands woefully weakened."

"We are most of us agreed that it is high time for another parliament," he said. "All our difficulties will have a better chance of being solved in a new House of Commons."

Asserting Britain has reached a point "in our postwar story and fortune which is both serious and strange," he asked for a new election, and added: "This election overrules all our domestic affairs, and will be fought out with more fundamental divergence over a part of our society than has been known in our lifetime."

Atom Bomb Election Issue

"Over all there looms the atom bomb, which the Russians have got . . .

"If you take three factors together, the financial crisis, the party conflict and the atomic bomb, it would be generally agreed that the hour is grave."

A general election is scheduled for next summer, the end of the normal five-year term since the Laborites won a landslide victory just after the end of the war in Europe.

Observing the government was asking for a vote of confidence at the end of the three-day debate on devaluation, Churchill continued:

"This is a considerable demand, this vote of confidence, and it forces us to look upon the past record of the Socialist party."

"The government were heirs not only to the grievous but triumphant hour, but also of the customs and traditions of the British state. How have they done?

"The electors will have to pronounce upon it at no distant date."

Deadline For Air Agreement Extended 30 Days

OTTAWA (CP)—The deadline for implementation of the Canada-United States air agreement has been extended another 30 days, it was learned today.

It is understood the extension was agreed on after an exchange of notes between the U.S. and Canadian governments in which the U.S. promised to show "good faith" under the terms of the agreement, signed in Ottawa last June.

Had the 30-day extension not been granted, the agreement would have come to an end Friday. That would mean that American companies no longer would have the right to pick up or drop off passengers or express on Canadian soil. Landing rights would not have been effected.

Deputy chief constable A. Riddell said one policeman's tunic was torn as officers encountered "difficulty" in breaking through a line of students. However, he termed the incident "quite minor" and said no charges would be laid against any of the demonstrating students.

Set New Price For Wheat; Offset Pound Devaluation

LONDON (CP)—The International Wheat Council announced today that the maximum price for Canadian wheat under the International Wheat Agreement will be $1.98 in Canadian currency for No. 1 Manitoba Northern in bulk at Fort William, Port Arthur and Vancouver.

The minimum price for the crop year 1949-50 is $1.65. The step was taken following devaluation of the Canadian dollar.

The announcement said of the present relationship between the United States and the Canadian dollar remains unchanged the basis for the minimum prices for succeeding years of the agreement in Canadian currency will be $1.54 in 1950-51, $1.43 in 1951-52 and $1.32 in 1952-53.

Previously the top price was $1.80 a bushel. The previous minimum price was $1.50 a bushel in the first year, with a 10-cent drop each year to $1.20 in the fourth.

Only One Of Seven Exit Ports Opened Noronic Probe Told

TORONTO (BUP)—Only one of seven possible embarkation ports, linking the ship to shore, was open when flames swept through the Ss. Noronic, the federal inquiry into the burning of the vessel a fortnight ago was told today.

John R. Naughe, superintendent of the western division of Canada Steamship Lines, told the Royal Commission headed by Supreme Court Justice R. L. Kellock, that the other ports were used for freight purposes.

Naughe indicated that opening them was a simple matter, and that anyone knowing little about ships could have done so. He said the open port, from which a gangway led to shore, was a few feet forward of amidships.

Embarkation ports generally had heavy steel doors which opened outwards, shipping authorities said. They closed by a bar falling horizontally into an arm, and opened simply by lifting the bar.

PLANS FILED
Naughe was called to the witness stand by Commission Counsel J. W. Pickup, who presented the inquiry with detailed cabin plans and diagrams of the ill-fated vessel's five decks.

The C.S.L. official described the cruise vessel as it was in its heyday, then called the "Queen of the Great Lakes," and said it was 36 years old, built in 1913. The vessel was of steel construction.

The inquiry officially opened in Osgoode Hall, seat of the Ontario courts, but later transferred to the city council chamber because of cramped conditions at the hall.

Represented by counsel were Canada Steamship Lines, owners of the burned ship, which blazed from stem to stern during the early hours of Sept. 17, killing at least 139 persons; the Seafarers' International Union; the Ontario Fire Marshal's office and the Canadian Seamen's Union.

Devalue West Mark

BONN (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer announced today that the three western Allies had decided to cut the value of the west German mark from 50 cents to 35 cents in United States funds.

Adenauer, head of the new West-German Republic, said the Allied recommendation had been given to his cabinet as a result of devaluation of the British pound.

Originally, Adenauer declared, the Germans had wanted the rate set at 22 1/2 cents.

The west-German cabinet still has to act on the Allied decision before devaluation is officially carried out, Adenauer said.

Tension Mounts On Labor Strike Fronts Across U.S.

By the Associated Press
Tension mounted in the United States coal strike and a showdown neared in the disputes which threaten strikes by steel and Ford Motor Company workers.

There was a new U.S. strike threat—a country-wide walkout of railway firemen and engine-men next month in protest of the rejection of a union demand for an extra fireman on diesel engines.

John L. Lewis' 480,000 United Mine Workers remained idle for the 10th day, but some 22,000 independent and non-union miners were working.

Meanwhile, with no indication of any early end of the walkout, U.M.W. officials planned to meet today with southern United States operators at Bluefield, W. Va.—Lewis may go to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., tomorrow for resumption of contract talks with northern and western operators.

Negotiations in the steel dispute were going to try again today to reach settlement on the pension issue. The strike deadline is midnight Friday and a walkout is expected to make idle some 1,000,000 C.I.O. United Steelworkers.

Midnight tonight is the deadline for a strike by some 115,000 C.I.O. United Auto workers at the Ford Motor Company. But company and union representatives worked throughout the night in efforts to reach agreement on a new contract.

Mrs. Pitre In Court On Attempted Suicide Charge

QUEBEC (CP)—Mrs. Arthur Pitre, the mystery woman in the Quebec airline disaster of Sept. 9, today was arraigned on a charge of attempted suicide and was remanded for preliminary hearing Oct. 6.

She was brought before Judge Laetare Roy in the Sessions Court this morning from the Quebec women's jail, where she was questioned Tuesday night about her part in the alleged bomb plot which resulted in destruction of the airliner and 23 persons aboard.

The 41-year-old Mrs. Pitre is a friend of J. Albert Guay, the young Quebec jeweler who has been charged with the murder of his wife. Mrs. Guay was one of the passengers aboard the liner which crashed after an explosion in its baggage compartment.

Mrs. Pitre, discharged from hospital last Friday after treatment from an overdose of sleeping tablets, has admitted she was the mystery woman who carried a parcel to the airliner the day it took off. Police claim the parcel contained a homemade bomb which blew the plane up.

Defence counsel Irene Simard made no application for bail and the woman was returned immediately to jail with a single escort. Led from police headquarters at a late hour Tuesday night for her transfer to the women's jail on Chemin Ste. Foy, Mrs. Pitre scowled and tried to dodge a battery of photographers who had been waiting for her for more than eight hours.

Earlier she had posed for them in her Monseigneur Gauvreau apartment—for a price.

Nearly Five Billions Freed By Congress For Marshall Plan

The recovery funds were carried in a $5,509,990,000 cover-all foreign aid appropriation which included money for non-military expenditures in Greece and Turkey and for the army's relief and recovery functions in the occupied areas of Germany and the Far East.

The compromise measure now goes back to the House and Senate for final approval, probably tomorrow.

Western Allies Call Off 4-Power Talks On Berlin

BERLIN (BUP)—British, French and American commandants today called off all further discussions with the Russians on the Berlin problem and thus, in effect, caused a breakdown in east-west relations in the city.

The commandants told a press conference they had decided to end their talks with the Russians because the Soviets refused to fulfill the agreement which ended Berlin's bloody two-month railway strike earlier this year. They said they had notified the Russians of their decision in a letter addressed to Maj. Gen. Alexander Kotlikov, Soviet commandant in Berlin.

The four-power talks had been ordered by the Big Four Foreign Ministers at their last conference in Paris in an attempt to "normalize" the life of this divided city.

The western commandants said suspension of the talks did not necessarily mean that economic and financial talks at a higher level on a Germany-wide basis also would end.

Noronic Captain To Speak

TORONTO (CP)—Capt. William Taylor of Sarnia, Ont., master of the steamship Noronic which burned with heavy loss of life in Toronto harbor Sept. 17, is expected to be called as a witness late today at the special inquiry into the disaster.

The opening morning session of the hearings, expected to take two weeks, was taken up with the testimony of J. R. Naudie, western superintendent of the Canada Steamship Lines, ship's owners.

Naudie admitted to Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock, government-appointed commissioner, that information for deck plans of the ship relating to fire equipment on the Noronic were obtained from hearsay, in part from the ship's officers.

The witness insisted the commission would find the ship actually carried more fire protection equipment than was required under shipping regulations.

Naudie, describing stairways and passageways deck by deck, said there was but one main stairway leading from "D" deck.

"So far as the passengers were concerned, there was only one exit on this deck," the commissioner noted. "Yes," replied Naudie.

Deadline For Air Agreement Extended 30 Days

OTTAWA (CP)—The deadline for implementation of the Canada-United States air agreement has been extended another 30 days, it was learned today.

It is understood the extension was agreed on after an exchange of notes between the U.S. and Canadian governments in which the U.S. promised to show "good faith" under the terms of the agreement, signed in Ottawa last June.

Had the 30-day extension not been granted, the agreement would have come to an end Friday. That would mean that American companies no longer would have the right to pick up or drop off passengers or express on Canadian soil. Landing rights would not have been affected.

Ask Why Canada's Captive Gen. Meyer In Civilian Prison

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Garson said today Maj. Gen. Kurt Meyer is in a civilian prison because there are no military prisons in Canada.

He said the Justice Department had no information about an investigation of the former German general's imprisonment retained by a group of unidentified citizens.

Mr. Garson said there were now only five military prisoners in the Dominion—Meyer and four Canadian army privates still serving time for offences committed during the war. It would be financially unsound to build a special prison for only five prisoners.

All five are in civilian penitentiaries. The investigation is being launched in Halifax through the efforts of a group of unidentified private citizens who maintain that a military prisoner should not be incarcerated in a civilian penitentiary. Meyer, sentenced to life imprisonment for war crimes while an officer in the German army, is in the penitentiary at Dorchester, N.B.

Hearing Follows Big Sweepstakes Seizures Here

The firm of J. Parker Buckle Printing Co. Ltd., 1115 Blanshard Street, was committed for trial by a higher court at the conclusion of a preliminary hearing in city police court today on a charge of unlawfully printing tickets for sweepstakes purposes.

The charge was laid subsequent to the arrest of Frank Hilton, ex-navy man living at Prospect Lake, who has since pleaded guilty in court to being the organizer of a nationwide sweep operated under the name Canadian Mutual Transportation Association.

In court today it came out for the first time that Hilton worked for the printing company. Called to the stand by city prosecutor Claude Harrison, Hilton said he had been employed by the printing company between March 22 and Sept. 14 as a bookkeeper. He volunteered that his salary was $30 a week.

Faced with 14,508 Canadian Mutual Transportation Association tickets which police said they seized from the Buckle printing shop Sept. 14, Hilton, after obtaining protection of the Canada Evidence Act, identified the tickets as those used in conducting the business he operated.

Hilton said he had ordered the tickets from Edgar Buckle, Parker Avenue, Cordova Bay, who is secretary-manager of the Buckle printing establishment.

When questioned as to whether or not he knew the tickets were printed at the Blanshard Street plant, he answered "yes."

Buckle, however, denied knowing the printing company was printing tickets for the Canadian Mutual Transportation Association.

When asked by the prosecutor if he recognized any of the tickets exhibited in court by police, Buckle answered, "Well, no, I don't."

Search Warrant Was Used

Deputy Chief of Police John Blackstock told of going to the printing plant premises on Sept. 14 in company with Constable Alex Nichol and Hilton. He said he presented a search warrant to Buckle and told him he was looking for sweepstakes tickets.

"I told him if he worked with us we would work with him. I did not want to tear the place apart."

The deputy chief said he followed Buckle to the second floor of the premises where Buckle gave him a handful of uncut tickets, saying that was all there was.

In the meantime, he said, Constable Nichol searched downstairs and found bundles of tickets stacked near a cutting machine.

The bundles were produced in court.

The deputy chief testified Hilton told Buckle he (Hilton) wanted to take full responsibility. "He said his boss was a good Joe and that he didn't want to get him (Buckle) into any trouble," said the deputy. He added that Buckle made no answer.

Unable To Identify Tickets

Arthur Mauger, 2072 Cadboro Bay Road, a pressman at the Buckle plant who was operating the cutting machine when police appeared on the scene, said he could not identify the tickets produced in court as being those taken from the plant.

Hilton, brought back on the stand at his own request at the conclusion of other evidence, claimed police took only three quarters of the tickets and complained to the magistrate that it had been insinuated in some evidence that his dispersment of association funds was not honest.

"I pleaded guilty for two good reasons," he said in referring to his own hearing. "First, I was threatened and second . . ."

Hilton was stopped from continuing as the court ruled his statements had no bearing on the case being considered.

$70,521,000 More Asked By Minister Of Finance

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott today tabled in the Commons further supplementary estimates covering proposed expenditures of $70,521,000 for the 1949-50 fiscal year.

The amount was for expenditures unforeseen when the original estimates were drawn up last year. It brought total estimated expenditures for the current year which ends March 31 next to $2,343,299,281.

The Labor Department asked for $1,515,001, including $1,000,000 to cover unemployment insurance payments in the new province of Newfoundland. The Resources Department asked for $3,627,217 to cover additional expenditures in its various branches. The amount included $585,467 to further Indian education.

The Defence Department estimated its additional requirements at $7,918,592, including $3,133,900 for defence research and development purposes.

The Health Department put in an estimate of $2,039,539, including $1,778,211 to cover payments to the provinces under the national health plan.

Set New Price For Wheat; Offset Pound Devaluation

LONDON (CP)—The International Wheat Council announced today that the maximum price for Canadian wheat under the International Wheat Agreement will be $1.98 in Canadian currency for No. 1 Manitoba Northern in bulk at Fort William, Port Arthur and Vancouver.

The minimum price for the crop year 1949-50 is $1.65.

The step was taken following devaluation of the Canadian dollar. The announcement said of the present relationship between the United States and the Canadian dollar remains unchanged the basis for the minimum prices for succeeding years of the agreement in Canadian currency will be $1.54 in 1950-51, $1.43 in 1951-52 and $1.32 in 1952-53.

Previously the top price was $1.80 a bushel. The previous minimum price was $1.50 a bushel in the first year, with a 10-cent drop each year to $1.20 in the fourth.

MALE FASHIONS

THIS BEING THE SEASON—perhaps I should qualify that and say one of the seasons—when women's thoughts turn almost exclusively to feminine fashion shows, it is not surprising that it has aroused a flutter of envy in certain male bosoms. At least, that is what I attribute an eastern announcement proposing that male styles should be changed every five years.

To a fashion-conscious woman, five years, of course, implies condemnation to life imprisonment in the same old clothes. She is so accustomed to being told by the stylists to change her fashions every few months.

Just as she has succeeded in adjusting her hem-lines to the New Look then she finds herself definitely sporting the Old Look. No sooner has she painfully peeled off the pounds to achieve the slim silhouette than she has to start agonizingly adding bits here and there to acquire a "fluid" effect to satisfy Dior.

FOLLOW THE BIRDS

BUT WHEN A MAN buys a suit, that's another matter. He knows—or thinks he does—that 10 years from now it will be just as good as ever. You see, he scoffs at that have only to ask any wife who has ever tried to induce style-consciousness into a husband by giving away his most decrepit old suit. His immediate reaction is an injured "Why, that suit was as good as new!"

And now some effete Easterner wants to change it all and make style and not serviceability the criterion of male attire; fashion, not comfort, become the guide. He evidently wants men to follow the birds, so to speak, for it's the male pheasant that wears the gay plumage.

WHAT IT MEANS

IF THAT EASTERNER gets his way, I can see marked changes not only in men's modes but in their manners. I can see them looking down their noses at the fellow who isn't sporting a plunging lapel when that is the newest note in fifty nuances.

Members of service clubs will feel horribly shabby when one of their number turns up at luncheon in peg-top pants with peplum pockets and two extra buttons on the coat, thus dating their fall outfits as five-year-olds.

And when Bill Buggins comes in wearing the same old weather-beaten, slightly-stained fedora that he has appeared in since his initiation as a charter member decades before, can't you hear the more dressy delegates whispering behind their hands in derision?

RUFFLED PLUMAGE

IMAGINE, TOO, the consternation that will be caused at fraternal and other conventions when Brother So-and-So turns up only to find he is sharing a seat on the platform with Brother Whatsname, who is wearing a duplicate suit—after both had been assured by suave salesmen that it was exclusive to them.

The whole convention will be spoiled for them, and not even the brotherly love inspired by badges and bunting will smooth their ruffled plumage.

That must have been the awful picture which inspired a mere male to write to the editor of the New York Times recently in protest against the five-year fashion proposal as a death blow to the last bulwark of masculine independence.

RALLYING CRY

HE TRIES TO RALLY his fellow-males to his standard with this pathetic cry: "Men have given ground to women all along the line. First the vote, then their place at the bar, now their right to wear a single style suit. . . . We must make a stand before all is lost. If men join women in the style parade, their surrender is complete."

"Let women continue keeping pace with changing fashions; let men continue keeping pace with mounting bills. Only under that fair system can man retain his independence." Poor fellow!

60-Year-Old Man Saves Small Boy From Drowning

Sixty-year-old Frank Cox, 824 Russell Street, Tuesday became the newest Victoria candidate for a Humane Society award for his feat in saving four-year-old Kenneth Reece, 824 Craigflower Road, from drowning in the sea.

The boy, son of Robert and Iris Reece, was reported by Dr. W. A. Trenholme this afternoon to be progressing favorably.

First reports that the boy suffered a possible fractured skull, spinal and stomach injuries, were disproved by X-rays taken today.

According to the city police, Mr. Cox, a First World War overseas veteran, was cutting the boulevards nearby when he heard the shrill cries of two boys calling for help.

Mr. Cox then saw Kenneth floundering in the water, about 15 feet from shore at the foot of Arm Street.

He immediately ran to the water's edge and, fully clothed, dived in and dragged the lad to safety.

Dr. Trenholme said Kenneth told him he was playing with two friends on the water's edge when he slipped and fell into the water.

The playmates were Brian Fillman, 1327 Arm Street, and Danny Wallis, 854 Carrie Road, both aged five years.

Mr. Cox, who has been a City Parks Department employee for 10 years, sent the boys to the home of G. D. Stephens to have the police called. Police attended, with the patrol and took Kenneth to hospital.

Tension Mounts On Labor Strike Fronts Across U.S.

By the Associated Press

Tension mounted in the United States coal strike and a showdown neared in the disputes which threaten strikes by steel and Ford Motor Company workers.

There was a new U.S. strike threat—a country-wide walkout of railway firemen and engineers next month in protest of the rejection of a union demand for an extra fireman on diesel engines.

John L. Lewis' 480,000 United Mine Workers remained idle for the 10th day, but some 22,000 independent and non-union miners were working.

Meanwhile, with no indication of any early end of the walkout, U.M.W. officials planned to meet today with southern United States operators at Bluefield, W. Va. Lewis may go to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., tomorrow for resumption of contract talks with northern and western operators.

Negotiations in the steel dispute were going to try again today to reach settlement on the pension issue. The strike deadline is midnight Friday and a walkout is expected to make idle some 1,000,000 C.I.O. United Steelworkers.

Midnight tonight is the deadline for a strike by some 115,000 C.I.O. United Auto workers at the Ford Motor Company. But company and union representatives worked throughout the night in efforts to reach agreement on a new contract.

Devalue West Mark

BONN (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer announced today that the three western Allies had decided to cut the value of the west German mark from 30 cents to 23.8 cents in United States funds.

Adenauer, head of the new West-German Republic, said the Allied recommendation had been given to his cabinet as a result of devaluation of the British pound.

Originally, Adenauer declared, the Germans had wanted the rate set at 25 cents.

The west-German cabinet still has to act on the Allied decision before devaluation is officially carried out, Adenauer said.

Arthritis Society Head Optimistic Over New Drug

While there was great hope for a cure for arthritis in the discovery of cortisone, Dr. Wallace Graham of Toronto, warned that it may take sometime before the new drug can be distributed to hospitals.

Dr. Graham, president of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, attending the annual meeting here of the B.C. Medical Society, said the present meagre supplies of cortisone were being used for research.

He added, however, the best brains were working to discover a method of producing the drug in large quantities so that it could be available to all patients.

He advised all arthritis patients to continue with the present treatments until such time as the drug was available.

The U.S. National Research Council is spending millions of dollars to find a method of producing cortisone in large quantities, he said. "We are doing all that is possible."

The doctor was optimistic with regard to the effects of cortisone on arthritis.

Dr. Graham also said it was discovered that a muscular form of rheumatism, often called arthritis, was caused by mental strain and tension.

"The cure is relaxation," he said.

Medical Society Elects Officers

Dr. J. C. Thomas, Vancouver, was elected president of the British Columbia Medical Association for 1949-50, at the organization's annual meeting at the Empress Hotel. He succeeds Dr. F. M. Bryant.

Dr. Steward A. Wallace, Kamloops, is president-elect for 1950-51.

Other officers are: Dr. H. A. L. Mooney, Courtenay, vice-president; Dr. J. A. Ganshorn, Vancouver, honorary secretary; treasurer; Dr. Frank Turnbull, Vancouver; Dr. W. R. Brewster, New Westminster; Dr. R. B. Brummitt, Nelson; Dr. D. M. Black, Kelowna; Dr. L. L. Plak, Victoria, directors at large.

STOCKHOLM (Reuter)—Scandinavian air lines will increase their north Atlantic passenger and freight rates by about 8 per cent following devaluation of the krona, the company announced Tuesday.

Probes Poisoning Of Six Workmen

While at Nanaimo today investigation was proceeding into claims of sickness of workmen caused by food poisoning, Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner, reported that Mrs. Rachael Bailey, 65, of 534 John Street, died from a heart attack and not from food poisoning as first suspected.

Mrs. Bailey died in Jubilee Hospital shortly after being admitted yesterday. She had told a resident of the same rooming house about feeling sick after eating some sardines.

An autopsy today, however, showed death due to the heart seizure, Dr. Hart said.

At Nanaimo, nine men were admitted to Nanaimo Hospital at 5 Tuesday evening suffering from stomach pains after having eaten ham sandwiches.

All nine were reported this morning to be improved and their release from hospital was expected later today.

Dr. J. H. Baldwin, who attended the nine, diagnosed their complaints as salmonellosis, Dr. A. N. Beattie, medical health officer for the Central Island area, confirmed this.

Only surnames of the up-island victims were available from the hospital. Records listed the patients as Sutton, Leach, O'Donnell, Morrison, Andros, Maesterson, Haakenson, Semorling and Wilson.

So-Ed Registration

Anyone interested in joining the Y.M.C.A. So-ed group is advised to register tonight at 8, it is announced by Bob Morrison, Y.M.C.A. program director.

A series of eight lectures will be presented at the classes, which are slated to commence Tuesday evening. Topics to be discussed under the general heading of "You and Your Future," include religion, vocational guidance, education, modern science and recreation.

Instruction in interior decorating, first aid, charm, school and various sports will also be given at the classes.

MONTREAL (CP)—Charges against three members of the Canadian Seamen's Union—Dan Daniels, John McElligott and Stanley Agar—were withdrawn today by the Crown. The trio was arrested during a disturbance opposite union headquarters. Daniels was charged with disturbing the peace and the other two were charged with obstructing pedestrians.

Able To See

Terry Cunningham, seven months, of Grove City, Ohio, saw his mother, Mrs. Dennis Cunningham (above), for the first time with the aid of heavy spectacles. The child, born with cataracts, recently underwent an operation for the removal of the opaque lenses on the eyeballs. With glasses he now has a 50-50 chance to see normally. He is one of the youngest children ever fitted with spectacles.—(NEA Photo)

Britain Should Hold Election Says Churchill

LONDON (UP)—"We are brought to the verge of national and international bankruptcy," Winston Churchill, Conservative leader, said in the House of Commons today, sharing in the second day's debate of devaluation of the pound.

"The blunt, hard, simple conclusion remains — devaluation cannot be a good thing, and we have suffered a serious disaster." He said he would have set the pound free on the world markets to find its own level.

Tolling off one by one his indictments of the Labor regime, Churchill warned that Britons now would have to draw more on "the spirit and carcass" to win back the same amount of food and other commodities.

"We are not in a state of health to become a blood donor on a large scale at the present time,"

Amazed At Cripps' Swing

Churchill voiced amazement at Sir Stafford Cripps' about-face on devaluation. He suggested the thought that Cripps should resign in the face of it unless he thought the government would not last much longer.

Laborites interrupted repeatedly as Churchill drove home his points. It was an unusually noisy sitting. At one point when a Laborite complained about Churchill's attack on Cripps, he retorted:

"I pick my own epithets with care, and I have a large selection of them."

He said Cripps' opposition to a free pound was expected, since "it is obvious that anything that is free and largely uncontrolled is obnoxious to the Socialists."

He referred to 1931, when Britain went off the gold standard, and said it was the "last time we had to clear up a Socialist financial mess."

An uproar from the labor benches prompted him to remark: "You laugh, but you had little to laugh at in 1931."

"The timing of the step was obviously wrong," Churchill said of devaluation. "The drastic

Principal Of Health Plan Wins Doctors' Approval

The Canadian Medical Association

approves the principle of health insurance, Dr. Jack F. C. Anderson, president, told delegates attending the annual convention of the B.C. Medical Association at a luncheon held at the Empress Hotel today.

Dr. Anderson, however, pointed out that the association advocated the application of the health insurance principle through the development of voluntary prepaid medical care plans to cover all of Canada.

"We propose that the state will provide, either in whole or in part, the premium for those unable to provide for such from their own means."

Dr. Anderson in expressing the views of the medical profession with regard to national health, said that medical services should come into existence by stages.

HOSPITAL COSTS

"The most urgent stage is the meeting of the costs of hospitalization," he said. "The basic part of this cost should be met by individual contribution."

He said the provision of hospitalization removed the major economic blow which might come to any individual because of an illness or accident.

While the establishment of any form of compulsory health insurance had as its main object the removal of the economic burden on the individual, Dr. Anderson pointed out that universal health insurance would not in itself ensure a better medical service than now existed.

"In fact there are good reasons to believe that it would lead to deterioration in medical services, with its centralized authority, its cumbersome administration and its increased costs," he said.

"There are those in Canada who vigorously maintain that the prompt introduction of compulsory health insurance is at once the perfect vehicle for attaining the best procurable type of medical service," said Dr. Anderson. "This premise is not a correct one."

BEST IN WORLD

Dr. Anderson noted that nowhere in the world was there better medical services than those obtainable in Canada and the United States.

He warned, however, that there was a "definite danger" that countries, already enjoying a high standard of medical care might lose these high standards by directing their efforts towards economic and political follies, rather than towards high standards of production.

The best type of social assistance is economic opportunity, he said, good wages and making people better able to take care of themselves.

If there were to be changes, Dr. Anderson said, they should be made carefully and step by step.

Health planning and administration should only be carried out by a commission composed of members of the medical profession and without government interference, Dr. Anderson insisted.

"The proper function of doctors is to be of service," he said, "not slaves to regulations, framed to fit a plan, in order to make for efficiency of the centralized administration."

Health Of Canadians Good

"The state of Canada's health has never been higher than it is now," said Dr. T. C. Routley, chairman of the World Medical Association Council, who is in Victoria attending the annual meeting of the British Columbia Medical Association.

Factors contributing towards the high standard of health were improved medical services and economic prosperity, he said.

"Canadians today are enjoying more leisure and earning more money," he said. "These factors all tend to raise the level of health."

The physician—who has been studying Canadian health for 31 years said the optimism of the Canadian people was something to be proud of.

"Despite threats of war there are no signs of nervousness," he said. "Canadians are quite ready to meet any obligation imposed upon them."

Dr. Routley who has made 14 trips to Europe, said European nations were getting "back on their feet and the health of the people was steadily improving."

Speaking on the aims of the World Medical Association, the doctor said the organization strove to assist all peoples of the world to attain the highest possible level of health.

Increase In Reserve Army Sought By Defence Chief

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP) Defence Minister Claxton Tues-

Broadcasts Tonight

JOE BRINDLEY

An Air Force veteran of seven years' service in England, India and Burma. He arrived in Victoria from England three years ago. In this short period he has become well known for his organizing ability. Tune in tonight, CJVI, at 9.55, to hear Joe Brindley. His subject is "Am I My Brother's Keeper?"

day night called for the construction of a reserve army at least 20 per cent larger than now existing.

"Already we have the second largest peacetime total in the history of the country," Mr. Claxton said in an address at the annual meeting of the Canadian Infantry Association. The reserve army has a strength of nearly 39,000.

"Let us go on this year to build it up to the strength needed now."

He paid tribute to Brig. Sherwood Lett of Vancouver, veteran infantry officer of two world wars, who was appointed honorary colonel commandant of the infantry corps.

Brig. Lett was wounded in the right shoulder and arm by shrapnel in the Second World War. He came back to Ottawa to take up the appointment of deputy chief of the general staff until the wounds healed and then returned overseas.

"The fact that Sherwood Lett should have been appointed as a result of the choice of his comrades, who were best qualified to know him, doubles the significance of his recognition," said Mr. Claxton.

MEMORY LINGERS ON—Hitler is by no means dead as far as best-selling publications on the Berlin newsstands are concerned. This display on fashionable Kurfurstendamm shows various newspapers relishing legends of Hitler, Mussolini and Goebbels. Some of the headlines read: "Goebbels Without Mask—The Case of Lydia Baarova," "A Woman Saved the Party," "Mussolini as Lover," and "Hitler as Strategist." One illustrated paper explains it handles the subjects from a "human point of interest."

Radioactive Substance Lacking For Cancer Cure

A cure for cancer depends on the discovery of a substance which would be absorbed selectively by cancer tissue. Dr. W. T. Watson, director of the Cancer Commission of Saskatchewan, reported to the delegates attending the annual meeting of the B.C. Medical Association at the Empress Hotel today.

"If a substance could be found which is absorbed selectively by cancer tissue," he said, "then it could be made radioactive and the tumor could be irradiated exclusively by merely injecting this material into the blood stream." He pointed out, however, that cancer tissue did not absorb all types of radioactive substances. While no such substance had yet been discovered, he said, the use of some radioactive materials had cured some cancer cases.

WE MUST FACE REALITIES

IT WAS OBVIOUS FROM THE TONE and phrasing of the speech which Hon. Lester B. Pearson, Secretary of State for External Affairs in the government of Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, delivered before the General Assembly of the United Nations in New York on Monday that Canada is leaving nothing to chance in the matter of defence—irrespective of the quarter from which aggression is calculated to come. This country, of course, learned its lesson from the deplorable state to which its defensive system was reduced in the early 'thirties—a condition which alarmed and spurred into action the then Minister of National Defence, Hon. Ian Mackenzie, who, as Rt. Hon. and Senator Mackenzie, died recently. His was not a simple job. It was no easy matter to "sell" the people of this Dominion, even after Hitler had sent his legions across the demilitarized Rhineland, on a proposal to rearm against the prospect of a Second World War.

We do not recall this bit of armaments history in any attempt to place the blame on the Bennett government for its parsimonious approach toward the needs of those times. Not even Mr. Churchill has begun to sound his warnings against the German threat; for it was not until the former Austrian corporal had stuck out his chest because his ill-equipped soldiery had met no obstruction—either political or military—on that part of the left bank of the Rhine which the Treaty of Versailles had proclaimed "verboten" to German troops that the "back-bencher" in the House of Commons of that day wrote in the first of his series of syndicated fortnightly articles that the conditions then presented "must be faced with firm convictions and a steadfast gaze unflickered by illusion." But it was this action on the part of the Fuehrer of all the Germans which indicated to Canada that something had to be done to anticipate the threat of the new ruler of the Third Reich.

Nothing we have said above is intended to belittle the advice which Major General G. R. Pearkes, V.C., has just given to the House of Commons. His address to the members of Canada's national forum on Monday was straightforward and to the point. To be sure, he spoke as a soldier, a soldier with a brilliant record, and it will not be surprising if Minister of National Defence Brooke Claxton does not confer with the member for the Nanaimo riding on matters on which both—as former soldiers—have similar views. It should not be forgotten, however, that it would be foolish if the high officers of state at Ottawa were to advertise their defensive "wares" for potential disturbers of the peace to analyze and assess.

No doubt some politicians and some newspapers which beat their independence will feel disposed to read into the remarks of General Pearkes an excuse to "belabor" the government which received such an emphatic mandate from the people of Canada as recently as last June 27. But there is no reason why certain publications should suffer an editorial hemorrhage when the national government does not find it convenient or economically feasible to vote millions for this or that project when so many are demanding attention.

ROCK-A-BYE

ALTHOUGH THE BIG NEWS OF Russia's possession of the atomic bomb was made by the official announcements from Washington, London and Ottawa, close observers could have been reasonably sure a week before that the Soviet Union had discovered, and was utilizing, the secret. Newsweek Magazine, on the stands last Friday, carried an "Atomic Lullaby" which was reprinted from a Christian Science Monitor edition earlier in the week. Written by a Russian poet as a song to be sung to tiny tots, the lullaby told of a great granite mountain in Siberia which stood in the way of some engineering project, and how engineers and sappers arrived to remove it. The poem continued:

Their young commander acting on his orders Laid an explosive charge—not TNT or dynamite.
 There's a stronger substance in your country now.
 I shall not name it, Rock-a-bye.

At the appointed hour there came a blast.
 The granite vanished into smoke.
 Lighting the surrounding taiga (forest)
 With golden brilliance.
 Let the wave from the blast
 Roll on to foreign shores
 Where it will sound
 A warning to our foes.

Whether or not one may admire such topics and sentiments as fit material for nursery lullabies, the whole statement of atomic development is there. The official release by the Russian news agency Tass the following Sunday added little when it said in reference to the talk of atomic bombs, that was exciting the western world: "In the Soviet Union, as is known, building work on a large scale is in progress. This includes work on hydro-electric stations, mines, canals and roads, which evoke the necessity of large-scale blasting with the use of the latest technical means." Perhaps the diplomats had better keep an eye on the nursery rhymes too, as an indication of what goes on behind the Iron Curtain.

FOSTERING EQUALITY

IN THIS PART OF CANADA THE attitude of New Zealanders to the Maoris—an attitude which reportedly shows more and more clearly their acceptance of the latter as complete equals—will be genuinely applauded. The situation conforms to the democratic belief held here that pigmentation is no standard by which to judge a people's worth. It should be recognized, however, that our position on the question of color is as detached as it is because, despite infrequent instances of discrimination, we are far removed from the problem as it occurs in certain other parts of the world. Moreover, it is a Canadian principle, underscored especially during the redefinition of citizenship a year or two ago, that men, women and children in this country who subscribe to and actively support Canadian ideals, and meet general qualifications not determined by blood, have the right to regard themselves as Canadians in every sense of that term.

Not without significance are the means by which New Zealanders recently asserted their high regard for the Maoris. One of the latter, John B. Smith, was named captain of the famous rugby team, the All Blacks, "the highest sporting honor the Dominion has to confer." Similarly, H. T. Reedy, another Maori, has been distinguished by appointment to New Zealand's delegation to sessions of the United Nations General Assembly in New York. The selection of Mr. Smith, incidentally, is the more popular because of the sympathy excited by his exclusion from a team touring South Africa, where Prime Minister Molan's attitude to color is one of the more embarrassing elements in Commonwealth relations.

It would be untrue, of course, to suggest that no prejudice of any kind exists in Canada against members of certain groups. It would be equally untrue, on the other hand, to say that no action is being taken to overcome such prejudices. Evidence is not lacking to indicate the manner in which animosities are being smoothed out in a greater appreciation of Canadianism—the common denominator which, with a broader appreciation of internationalism, should eventually solve this domestic problem. And it is encouraging to note a widening public reaction which attributes intolerance to ignorance when it is expressed on racial grounds.

HARD LIFE FOR THE YOUNG

IN THE OCTOBER READER'S DIGEST, writer John Bedford takes up the cudgels against present day society's view of the child. The ideal number of children, he says, is none. He "wouldn't be a kid again for a new maroon convertible with a ramjet engine." Normal expenditure of his own sons' energies—the boys are nine and seven—invariably draws a complaint from some neighbor. As Mr. Bedford notes:

"Every time one of them lets out a whoop half a dozen people look up from their petunias and scowl. Every time they get carried away with their games and forget that their feet are on someone's lawn, people look at one another and shake their heads."

Why not? When a man or woman plants a lawn or garden he or she is entitled to enjoy its growth. Should a gardener look up and smile sweetly when some young tike has gouged out the new grass or broken down tenderly raised petunias just as they are about to flower? Children are naturally heedless. They cause thoughtless damage unless they are checked. Obviously they must be allowed certain freedoms, but not to the point where the exercise of their own liberties interferes unduly with the enjoyment of living by seniors.

Normal healthy youngsters almost invariably get into minor trouble with neighbors. But they improve in direct ratio to the intelligent discipline which is imposed upon them. If Mr. Bedford dislikes the scowls and headshakings of his neighbors, let him contemplate the opposite alternative—a community so indulgent to the young fry that it helps to create the completely uninhibited, "untrammeled self-expression" type. And from that, Mr. Bedford, please spare us.

GRATIFYING GESTURE

REGARDLESS OF ALL ECONOMIC considerations, the Dominion Government's arrangement to make $3,000,000 worth of apples available to Britons this year—half at no cost to the recipients—will win the approval of most Canadians. On British tables, so frequently with little to lift them from drab monotony, the fruit from Nova Scotia and British Columbia should make a brave showing. The gesture is an excellent means of letting the little people of the United Kingdom know that they remain in the thoughts of this country's citizens who are happy to share with the less fortunate folk across the Atlantic some of the bounties which our orchards yield.

The fact that the action absorbs a considerable amount of the current crop under a plan which brings returns to the grower is of understandable importance. And it has the additional virtue of keeping British consumers aware of the high standard of fruit available from this nation. The significance of that effect should not be lost when the external purchasing powers of Britain are enhanced and apples are bought on a market less subject to restrictions.

No fuel is ever lacking for a political cauldron.

THE BERIA BOMB: I

THE TIMETABLE of American strategic planning has been wholly upset by former N.K.V.D. chief Lavrenti Beria's success in perfecting a Soviet atomic bomb. The joint chiefs of staff picked 1952, rather than 1949, as the year in which Soviet atomic stockpiling was likely to begin. This means simply that the timetable must be drastically revised, if the strategic balance of power is not to shift disastrously in favor of the Kremlin.

Beria's triumph does not mean that the balance of power has already shifted, overnight. There is still some time in which either to achieve an agreement with the Russians on control of atomic energy, or else to confront the Russians with overwhelming power, despite their possession of an atomic stockpile. These are, clearly, the only remaining alternatives. How much time is left depends largely on how quickly the Russians can overcome two obstacles.

THE FIRST OF THESE is the problem of raw materials. Unless American and British information is disastrously wrong, the Russians are confronted with a serious shortage of uranium and thorium. Their main sources are the Erzgebirge mines in the Soviet zone of Germany and the Jacymov mines in Czechoslovakia. There are believed to be subsidiary sources in eastern Europe, Turkestan, Sinkiang, Siberia and central Russia. But the fissionable material in these secondary sources is limited and of very low grade.

Even the German and Czech mines are not nearly as rich as Anglo-American sources in the Belgian Congo and Canada. To produce the material for the Beria bomb, the German and Czech mines have had to be worked with a total disregard for human life. The raw material has been almost literally clawed out of the earth, at a cost of an estimated 10,000 deaths a month.

THIS raw material shortage provides, of course, no grounds for complacency. Even if the main German and Czech mines run out, geologists believe that sooner or later rich deposits are certain to be found in the vast land mass controlled by the Kremlin. But the experts do believe that the present shortage of raw material will slow the rate at which the Soviets can expect to build a decisive stockpile of bombs.

The second obstacle which Beria and his colleague of the Politburo must overcome is the problem of delivery. Until well after the end of the war, the Russians had no strategic air force. But within the last two years, for reasons which are now obvious, they have concentrated their attention on heavy bombers. The Russian bombers are patterned on three American B-29s, which fell into Russian hands during the war. Air force intelligence has estimated that the Russians now have about 300 of these bombers.

THIS small strategic bomber force is considered insufficient for a decisive surprise attack on the United States. One-way flights would be possible from existing Soviet bases. But American defence forces would have sufficient warning so that the comparatively slow Soviet bombers could be knocked out of the skies, before more than a tiny handful of planes approached their targets.

There are other means of delivery. One possible technique is to smuggle bomb parts into a great city—say New York—the parts to be brought together later and detonated. But, again, according to experts, it would be enormously difficult to deliver a single bomb in this way. To deliver a number sufficient to achieve a knockout blow would be impossible.

THE SOVIETS are known to have been working feverishly on the German-developed supersonic rockets. If these rockets could be fitted with an atomic warhead, it would be virtually impossible to defend western Europe, and ultimately the United States, from surprise attack. But the experts are certain Soviets have not yet solved the immense problems involved in atomic rockets, and will not soon do so.

All this means that there is still some time—though no one cares to guess how much—in which Americans can sleep fairly easily in their beds. For the western Europeans, there is not even this consolation. With only a few bombs in his stockpile, Beria could destroy Paris or Rome almost without opposition.

WESTERN strategy has been based on the assumption that western Europe could be put in a position of defence by the mid-fifties, when Soviet atomic stockpiling was expected to get really under way. The whole effort to place Europe in a defence posture must now clearly be redoubled, with heavy emphasis on tactical air defence. Otherwise mounting pressure may be expected in western Europe to settle with the Kremlin on the Kremlin's terms.

Nor is this all. The military organization of the whole western world must be made so strong that the Kremlin will not dare to challenge it, even with surprise attack and atomic bombs. If this is really to be done, the United States must now make a production effort comparable to wartime. Even this, of course, will promise no real security. Indeed, unless the Soviet Union can somehow be brought to agree to effective control of atomic energy, there will be no real security for anyone, anywhere, any more.

As Our Readers See It

SENSIBLE CLOTHES

Your correspondent, Barbara L. Durdin, evidently wants to damn all males as "mice," because she knows and sees a certain percentage wearing clothes unsuitable to the prevalent climate (conditions), while she and her sisters have the sense to wear as little as possible when it is hot!

I agree with her that it is high time that men were pulling together to force clothiers to make clothes, practical in the first place and at a price at which all of us can buy them. It is a fact that shirts with open collars are much higher priced than those with a collar, acting as a vise. The more open a throat is kept, the healthier it will be and the more resistance it will offer to all kinds of ailments.

Clothiers do not always supply a man's suit with sufficient pockets at the right places necessary to carry all the paraphernalia the average man needs for daily use.

Let all of us pull together and tell manufacturers what we want to wear.

F. H. STAVERMAN,
Langford Lake.

BUSES AND OIL

In view of recent announcements that the dollar adjustments will have an upward effect on the price of oil products, would it not be good policy of our Transportation Board and the B.C. Electric Railway to give full consideration to the prospect of introducing the use of trolley buses—using the power now being generated at Elk Falls through the foresight of John Hart?

"TRANSIT."

QUITE A PROGRAM

Our poets seem to have given Nature a thorough going over. Living in this day of atom bombs and jet planes I would like to suggest they now concentrate on human nature.

United Nations, International Law, International Police and Intoxication (mental and liquid) are all museful themes for today.

The uncivilized? Indian warriors hung their victim's scalps around their waists, today our civilized (?) warriors pin the symbols of the battles won upon their chests. Why don't the nation's official hangman do likewise?

Yes, the world needs her poets to help bring about a new way of life.

Progress In Prisons

BBC London Letter

A PROGRAM called "The Prison Without Bars," which dealt with the open prison at Leyhill in Gloucestershire, was the subject of a most unusual BBC broadcast. Home Office permission was given to take a recording car inside the prison, but attendants were not allowed to make recordings of the voices of actual prisoners. An authentic case history for a prisoner called Reginald Jackson was compiled, and given to an actor to memorize.

VARIOUS STAGES

He became "Reginald Jackson" for the duration of the broadcast and when 11 other new prisoners were admitted to Leyhill, "Jackson" went with them and his progress through the various stages of prison routine were recorded. With the exception of "Jackson" and his wife "Phyllis," everybody heard in the broadcast—governor, chaplain, doctor and officers—was doing his own job.

Leyhill Prison, formerly an American camp in beautifully tended grounds, is unique in Britain. Here prisoners are given a chance to reform in good surroundings unembittered by close seclusion in ugly buildings and the constant locking of doors.

There are more than 300 men, the majority of them first offenders, and all are very carefully selected before being sent to Leyhill. They have an eight-hour working day and many of them are employed on surrounding farms and are so trusted that they go to work each day on bicycles and return without supervision.

FREE TIME

Afterwards they are free until 9 p.m. to work in their own garden plots, join the prison orchestra, dramatic society, various classes or debates. They can play games, read or write in quiet rooms, or listen to the radio. The prison chaplain is always in attendance in the evenings to help men with any personal problems.

The governor of Leyhill, Mr. J. E. Henderson, was formerly governor of Dartmoor and Wakefield jails. He maintains rigid discipline but the men are allowed such measure of trust as will awaken a sense of personal responsibility in them for he believes that long sentences served in walled prisons can and do breed bitterness and resentment.

The number of escapes from Leyhill is small in proportion to the number of offenders detained there; in 1948 the gross population was 437 and the escapes only eight.

HUMANE SYSTEM

This illuminating broadcast finished with an interview with a convict who had been released from Leyhill only an hour before. In general he praised the enlightened and humane system and admitted that his attitude towards society had changed considerably as a result of the time spent at the prison without bars.

Does The Public Want It?

By JOSEPH LISTER RUTLEDGE

THE tentative proposal that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation should double its license fee to a charge of $5 a year is not meeting with a wildly enthusiastic response.

WITHOUT A VOICE

This is not so much because of the proposed $2.50 additional fee, but rather on account of the feeling that a rather nebulous corporation with overly arbitrary powers and equally arbitrary policies is proposing to levy an additional tax without giving anything but the sketchiest explanation, and without our having any say in the matter.

We are reacting to that as free men normally react to taxation without representation. For, while the CBC is a servant of the government, it is singularly free from anything but the most general control, direction or supervision.

The CBC, in its best bureaucratic manner, apparently proposes to determine what we want, what we shall have, and what we shall pay for it and, short of open revolt, there is very little we can do about it.

If the price of other commercial products gets out of line, we have the right to abstain from buying, or we can switch to some other comparable product and so are able to bring pressure to bear on producer and distributor.

HAVE TO PAY

Not so with the CBC. There are other comparable products to which we may turn—those of the independent broadcasters, or of stations across the line. But, though we never listen to a CBC broadcast, we still have to pay for it or face the possibility of being hailed into court as a debtor for a product that we have neither bought nor used.

As many do not like this policy, they incline to pay only on demand, with the result that only the most easily cornered by the minions of this almost perfect bureaucracy pay the tax for the whole.

Even if the tax itself were sound, the unfairness in its collection makes it of dubious merit. But, even those who do submit to it still feel that an arbitrary and unexplained increase is a little too bureaucratic. When seeking new capital, other industries submit a balance sheet showing how the original capital was used and what it is proposed to do with the new.

The CBC does not present sufficient information for the public to determine whether the investment is sound or in the public interest.

MORE INFORMATION

All the sources of revenue on which the independent companies must subsist, and apparently do quite satisfactorily, are open to the CBC, plus the substantial item of its tax on the public which it shares with no one. When doubling this impost is proposed, we feel that the public is on unassailable grounds in demanding more information before it buys.

GLOBAL SURVEY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

BRITAIN'S Socialist government is facing its greatest political crisis in current debate in the House of Commons over the recent controversial devaluation of the pound sterling.

Actually the question of devaluation is incidental.

The real point at issue is whether Britain's first experiment in Socialist government has measured up to its stewardship in handling the crisis.

IMPORTANT TEST

In short Prime Minister Attlee's regime is called upon to justify its existence. And the outcome of the examination is a matter of moment far beyond the confines of Britain, for this government represents the world's most important test of modern Socialism (as distinct from Communism and Bolshevism).

The main attack on the government comes from the Conservatives, led by Britain's wartime prime minister, Winston Churchill.

Attlee lacks the colorful personality of his opponent. However, the Prime Minister himself has achieved powerful leadership through team work and his reputation for sincerity. I had a long conversation with him in London just after he came to power in 1945, and sized him up as being a straightforward man. I find I also made this comment in my 1945 report:

MASTER CHEMIST

"Don't forget that it's Attlee who is the master chemist in this leftist politico-economic experiment which, if it should go wrong, would have a tremendous repercussion not only on England but on the rest of the globe."

"The difficulty, as I see it, is that chemist Attlee is experimenting with an untried mixture. And of course honesty won't prevent it from blowing up in his face. However, the steady hand that comes from integrity or purpose certainly is vital."

Well, chemist Attlee has arrived at the crucial moment of his experiment. The charge by his opposition isn't that the Socialists produced the crisis, since they inherited much economic grief when they took over as the war was closing, but that they have failed to solve it.

CLIPPED AT RANDOM

'OPERATION SNAIL'

Windsor Star
One thousand British railway workers who are moving to Australia are introducing a new wrinkle into emigration. They're taking their own prefabricated homes with them.

Fifteen years ago this idea might have been treated as an absurdity, but today it has a high practical value; so high a value, in fact, that authorities in this country would do well to inquire about its possibilities here.

REVALUATION

Exchange
The rural electrification program near Nevada, Mo., was completed—houses wired and equipment purchased—and the company turned on the current late one afternoon and evening for a trial run. Then it was off and a survey was made of how people had used the electricity.

"I cooked on my new electric stove," said one young wife. "I used my new washing machine," answered another.

A little old lady said: "I just looked at Pa. I hadn't seen him after dark for years."

PENNY CANDY

New York Times
Just what the nation most needs to slow down whirling gears and smooth out frothy rapids of current events is a matter of opinion. One friend of ours misses the cracker barrel in the general store. He also feels that we will not have the right kind of gingerbread until we get some of the old-fashioned tawny molasses that came in barrels.

However, the most distressing lack and one that has a deleterious effect on the contemporary social order, he thinks, is the scarcity of penny candy. In his opinion, a voting-age citizen who has never had the opportunity to choose a dime's worth of hard candies in a cluttered, dusty, rounded glass candy counter is not properly prepared to ponder the contemporary scene and make decisions. Buying penny candy taught important life lessons. One learned to weigh all angles and to make his decision in the light of known results.

Commons Gives Second Reading To Appeals Abolition Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons has put its stamp of approval on the principle of a government bill aimed at abolishing appeals to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in London.

The approval — it was not unanimous — was given Tuesday after members had rejected a Progressive Conservative amendment that would have shelved the legislation for six months to permit further study of the bill's likely effects on the rights of minorities and the provinces.

There was no formal recorded vote on the amendment or on the bill's second reading, which signifies adoption in principle. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and his supporters shouted "on division" to signify their opposition to the reading and to the defeat of the amendment.

Now — probably on Thursday or Friday — the bill will be studied clause by clause by a committee of the whole House. And the government has already been told by Wilfred Lacroix (L. Quebec-Montmorency) that amendments to some clauses will be submitted.

VANCOUVER M.P.'S OPINIONS
Mr. Green took a firm stand in opposition to abolition of appeals to the Privy Council. He contended the government was "holding a gun to the heads of the provincial governments" by forcing passage of this bill by forcing the more important problem of defining provincial jurisdiction under Canada's constitution.

By abolishing appeals, Canada would be adding further to the heavy burdens shouldered by the British Empire.

This step, he said, would be interpreted in every capital of the world as a weakening of the Commonwealth. Particularly would this view be taken in countries behind the Iron Curtain.

The suggestion that the bill would be a step toward complete nationhood was an appeal to Canada's isolationists, he said. Canada had been a fully autonomous nation since the end of the First World War and it ill-behoved any cabinet minister to come into the Commons in 1949 and say he was winning nationhood for this country.

Mr. Green said the government might better consider a more important problem — that of Canada's growing subservience to the United States.

IDEAS NOT CHANGED

Replying to Mr. Green, Louis Philippe Picard (L. Bellechasse, Que.) said the argument about weakening the Commonwealth was an old one that had been used 75 years ago by Sir John A. Macdonald, Conservative prime minister. It was an indication, he said, that the ideas of the Progressive Conservatives hadn't changed in that time.

Mr. Picard said Prime Minister St. Laurent had openly talked about abolition of Privy Council appeals during his election-campaign tour. The result of the election might indicate how people feel about the step.

INCOME TAX QUESTION

In opening proceedings, Finance Minister Abbott announced that as a result of amendments last year to the Income Tax Act union dues are no longer exempt from income tax. Revenue Minister McCann indicated the dues will be allowed as deduction for 1945, 1946 and 1947 and that adjustments "will be made accordingly."

First, second and third reading was given to a bill extending the provisions of the Criminal Code to the new province of Newfoundland. Justice Minister Garson said federal and Newfoundland legal officials now are considering how the code can best be applied to the province.

Two bills sponsored by Rodney Adamson (P.C. York West, Ont.) were given first reading. One would amend the Navigable Waters Protection Act to prevent the pollution of waters with oil, oil sludge, chemical wastes and other matters. The second would amend the Railway Act to make railways as well as industrial plants comply with municipal anti-smoke by-laws.

In the Senate, the debate on the Address in Reply to the Throne Speech was continued. Senator F. W. Gershaw (L. Alberta) stressed the need for irrigation on the prairies.

To Try Rotary Traffic Control Plan At Fountain Intersection

A "circus" or rotary system of traffic control—soon will be tried at the city's complicated Fountain intersection.

City Council decided Tuesday this was the best course to be taken in efforts to reduce accident hazards and speed up traffic flow at the intersection.

The circular system was proposed earlier by City Engineer Cyril Jones. It was suggested as a more economical plan than one submitted by Washington State highway engineers.

The U.S. plan called for a channelization of traffic through traffic control signals and was recommended by the Town Planning Commission.

The town planners reconsidered the question though, and agreed after studying the circular plan to recommend that either one of the two systems be tried.

The circular system will be charted with sand bags and painted lines on the asphalt in the experiment. Cars will be required to move around a large centre island in the intersection, peeling off when they come to the side street they wish to take.

$100 Maximum Fine For Using Slugs In City Parking Meters

Persons putting slugs in parking meters soon will be liable to a fine of $100.

City Council on Tuesday took steps to amend its parking meter by-law to make this the maximum penalty.

Action was taken on recommendation of its public works committee.

Three city businessmen recently were fined $1 each for using slugs in meters and the magistrate noted that under the by-law this was the severest penalty he could impose.

Council approved another recommendation that meters be installed on the south side of Humboldt Street from Government to Douglas Street.

Parking on Langley Street will be restricted in future to one side of the street, it was decided.

Says Plan To Build Cottages For Aged Not Being Dropped

The Lions' Club and church welfare organizations have not abandoned plans to build cottage homes for senior citizens in need, City Council was told Tuesday.

Ald. Margaret Christie, chairman of council's social welfare committee, said the club and members of the Presbyterian and United churches were meeting soon to discuss the question.

She made the announcement after a letter had been read from the Senior Citizens' Welfare Society asking for release of $6,000 which is being held for a cottage housing project for old people.

Plan is to build a group of small bungalows where old couples could live together instead of being separated at the city's home for the aged.

$23,881 For Schools

City Council on Tuesday authorized its solicitor to prepare a by-law allowing the setting aside of $23,881 from 1949 tax sale land collections to cover schools' extraordinary expenditures not included in the 1949 budget.

Action was taken on recommendation of the council's finance committee.

Pupils Substitute For City Council

School students will take over the offices of Mayor and aldermen on Future Citizens' Day Oct. 15.

City Council members agreed Tuesday to relinquish their offices to the youth who will be given a first-hand view of the elected representatives' duties.

Victoria Aerle No. 12, Fraternal Order of Eagles, asked for council co-operation in the day.

To Hear Opposition Before Ruling On Second Radio Station

City Council is going to wait to hear arguments from radio station CJVI before deciding if it will support the application of David Armstrong, New Westminster, for permission to operate a second broadcasting station in Victoria.

This was decided Tuesday when the New Westminster radio man told the council there was a need for a second radio station in the city.

He said his station would support all community undertakings, would co-operate with such bodies as the council, the Chamber of Commerce, service clubs and youth organizations.

His application for a license to operate the second station was going before the CBC board of governors shortly, but he did not object to the postponement of council action for two weeks. The postponement was requested by CJVI officials who indicated they would like to present arguments to council against permission being granted for an opposition station to operate.

No More Gravel Sidewalks In City

No more gravel sidewalks will be built in the city.

This change in City Council policy was made at a meeting Tuesday when Ald. Ed. Williams said gravel walks were more trouble than they were worth.

He said that for 40 cents more a foot asphalt sidewalks could be built and there was no comparison between the two.

Gravel sidewalks five feet wide cost 50 cents a foot to build; asphalt walks five feet wide cost 90 cents a foot; and concrete sidewalks cost $1.40 a foot.

It was decided to build asphalt sidewalks on the south side of Fairfield Road from Foul Bay to the city boundary; on Burdon Avenue between Gosworth Avenue and Doncaster Drive, and on Haultain Street, from Blackwood Street to Fernwood Road.

No Referendum Yet On Curling Rink

City Council on Tuesday tabled for two weeks a plan to hold a referendum vote in December on the releasing of reserved list property off Quadra Street adjacent to the Memorial Arena for erection of a curling rink.

Some aldermen thought the property should be kept as a possible site for a new city hall. The question was tabled until after a special committee studying possibilities of building a new hall has met next week.

HIT BY A FREIGHT TRAIN—Elmer Littlejohn, 43, and his son-in-law, James Murphy, 22, of San Francisco, know how it feels to be hit by a freight train—or at least, by a freight car. The two were driving along quietly, when suddenly this freight car toppled over on top of their car. Littlejohn, the driver, was not hurt and Murphy received cuts on his fingers. A defective wheel on the freight car is believed to have caused the accident.

Give Vote Of Thanks For Arena Ceremony

City Council said "thanks" Tuesday to all persons who helped make the opening and dedication of the Memorial Arena last Sunday a success.

Ald. Ed Williams, arena committee chairman, sponsored the "thank you" vote which will be sent by letter to a long list of participants and workers.

Special mention was made of Frank Hunter, city clerk, and his staff for long hours spent in arranging the opening ceremony program; W. Carter, foreman carpenter of the city, who looked after construction of stages and other work; and Ald. Margaret Christie who was in charge of decorations.

Ald. Williams was appreciative too of the part the padres of the armed forces played in the service and he said he wanted the citizens to know that the committee tried to make the ceremony interdenominational.

Says Too Many Bus Zones City Streets

Ald. J. D. Hunter, chairman of City Council's public works committee, thinks there are too many bus zones on downtown streets, particularly on Government and Douglas Streets.

He asked at Tuesday's City Council meeting that the transportation committee heed his observation.

The public works chief also thought bus stops in outlying areas should be on the far side of intersecting streets.

The reducing of stops would cut costs of operating buses, Ald. Hunter believed.

Ald. Skillings Asks Bus Fare Information

Ald. Waldo Skillings failed in a cross-examination of Ald. Harold M. Diggon at Tuesday's City Council meeting to learn what the probable bus fare increase on urban lines will be.

"Is it too much to ask what the companies (B.C.E.R. and V.I.

Coach Lines) are asking for?"

Ald. Skillings queried. He thought the transportation committee, headed by Ald. Diggon, should keep council informed on how negotiations were progressing.

Ald. Diggon replied that the committee was studying a breakdown of financial statements of the companies and he expected a "verdict" would be known soon.

But as for the actual amounts of increases requested, the committee chairman said, "The companies are asking the committee to recognize that their costs of operation are worthy of an increase in income."

Committee Stumped On After-Hour Sales

City Council's committee on business, trade and industry does not know what to do about complaints from jewelers that some stores and newsstands were selling jewelry after hours as souvenirs.

The jewelers asked the City Council that something be done immediately to stop this unfair competition, and council referred the question to the business committee.

Outcome of the committee's deliberations announced at Tuesday's council meeting was a recommendation that the city solicitor and city prosecutor be asked to find a solution to the problem.

Pipers Win Round In Feud With Scouts

Victoria Girls' Pipe Band gained the upper hand at Tuesday's meeting of City Council in a feud over use of Kings Road Hall with the Boy Scouts' Association.

Council gave its solicitor power to take action to break a lease for use of the hall property by the scouts after securing police evidence that the association has not complied with an agreement signed with the city.

It was explained that the scouts were leased the property at a nominal fee on the understanding the pipers could use the premises one night a week. But doors had been closed to the lassies.

Employ Professor To Investigate City Business Taxation

A more equitable system of business taxation is being sought by City Council because of scores of complaints received since increased trades license fees went into effect in July.

Council on Tuesday approved a finance committee recommendation that G. R. Elliott, Victoria College economics professor, be asked to study and investigate the business tax means of collecting revenue as against the trades license system.

The professor will be asked to make recommendations as to what type of tax was best.

Council wants relative schedules drawn of the two systems of taxation by Nov. 15.

Red Sox Touted As New 'Miracle Men'

BOSTON (AP)—Cries of "miracle men" hailing the Red Sox drive to the top of the American League Tuesday sounded like an echo to Boston fans—an echo 35 miles away.

That's what they called George Stallings' Braves of 1914 when they came from last place—10½ games back on July 4—to win the National League pennant.

And that's what they are calling manager Joe McCarthy's Red Sox—even though they have yet to clinch the flag.

McCarthy's men were 12 games off the pace on the "fourth"—the traditional date when baseball fans usually take stock and count the chips.

It was New York and Boston—Glants and Braves—down to the wire in 1914; and it's New York and Boston again this time.

The rest of the picture was much the same, too, with New York the front runner virtually all the way.

Club Would Ban Obscene Magazines

Victoria Kiwanis Club today will wire Stuart S. Garson, Minister of Justice and Canada's Attorney General, Ottawa, asking that he take immediate action to stop distribution in this country of obscene literature.

Decision to wire the minister was made by the club at its meeting Tuesday afternoon.

The club ruled some magazines now on newsstands should be banned as they tend to corrupt morals by inflaming passions and incite juveniles to immoral conduct.

Publishers and distributors of such magazines, the club considered, should be prosecuted.

Irish Protestants Form Association

The Irish Protestant Association of Victoria was formed at a meeting at the home of J. Grier, 650 Victoria Avenue.

Three of Ireland's four provinces, Ulster, Leinster and Connaught, were represented in the gathering of Irish from Greater Victoria.

Robert Gordon was elected president; Robert John Ward, vice-president; Rev. Frank Conkey, chaplain; Miss J. B. Davkins, secretary; Miss T. Downie, treasurer. On the executive are Mrs. E. Keatley, John Grier and Herbert Wasson. The next meeting will be held Oct. 24 at 597 Oliver Street, Oak Bay.

Mummy's In Here

At the New York Museum of Natural History was opened this big bundle containing what is believed to be a 3,000-year-old pre-Inca Peruvian mummy. Dr. Rebecca Carrion, director of the Lima Museum in Peru, checks the bundle on its arrival in New York. The "mummy" was discovered on the plains of Paracas in Peru.

Holland's Reindustrialization Calls For 1,000 More Engineers

By WILLIAM BOSS
THE HAGUE (CP) — The Netherlands, which already employs Canadian pilots, trains Canadian doctors and has a sprinkling of Canadian ex-servicemen in various types of employment, has openings for 1,000 trained engineers.

Her program of "reindustrialization" calls for a minimum of 3,640 qualified civil engineers by 1953, yet her technical university at Delft can provide only 2,630. Where the extra 1,000 will come from is worrying the country's planners.

They are revising the country's economy with an eye on the fact that imports exceed exports by 10 to one, a situation which must be curbed before the end of Marshall Aid in 1952.

GERMAN MARKET

Two factors, either of which would guarantee Holland's prosperity—the economic revival of Germany as a market, and the successful solution of Colonial troubles in Indonesia, source of much of her raw materials—are being left aside in the industrial replanning.

Experts hope to:

1. Raise the country's exports.
2. Replace Holland's dollar imports, as Britain is doing, by imports from countries with which she has fewer currency difficulties.

3. Increase home production of dollar articles and materials, especially cattle fodder, which alone could save $20,000,000 annually.

Mule In Kansas Adopts A Calf

WICHITA, Kas. (AP)—Maggie the mule didn't fall or jump or climb into anything. She just grew maternal and adopted a calf.

Maggie's owners, Mr. and Mrs. Everett J. Graham of Wichita, said the mule wandered into a nearby field and came back to her stable with Roy, Shirkey's heifer calf—to mother.

Mothering's unusual for a mule. Being hybrids, they don't reproduce.

The calf was returned to Shirkey.

"Maggie raised an awful racket," said Mr. Graham today. "She seemed just heartbroken."

So the Grahams bought a baby bull for Maggie to care for, the same color and size as the heifer she'd stolen.

"Maggie heard that bull calf bawl when we put it in the stable," reports Mrs. Graham. "She just took it over."

"The calf tries to nurse, but Maggie can't feed it—so we take care of the feeding."

Manitoba Leads In Tourist Traffic
WINNIPEG (BUP)—Manitoba Mines and Resources Minister J. S. McDiarmid reported that his province led all provinces in tourist traffic increases during the first eight months of 1948.

McDiarmid said tourist vehicle permits were up 30.4 per cent over the same period last year.

Alberta was second with an estimated 28.8 per cent jump over its last year's mark the minister said.

Get Proof In Sample

QUEBEC CITY (BUP) — A Quebec City family had proof today that even in peacetime when it came to the problem of baking a wedding cake, Britons lived by Winston Churchill's promise: "Give us the tools and we'll finish the job."

Mrs. Thomas Page of Romford, Essex, Eng., grandmother of a bride-to-be, Joan Eleanor Murrells, wrote to her nieces here, asking if they could "possibly" send ingredients for an old-fashioned wedding cake. "Things are so very hard to get here," she said.

The Quebec City family gathered up currants, raisins and six pounds of powdered white icing sugar.

This week they received a small parcel containing a piece of the wedding cake.

production for home consumption, is under way.
Though without iron ore of her own, The Netherlands is the world's largest exporter of pig iron. She plans to increase by 25 per cent the capacity of her blast furnaces at IJmuiden.

A new wrinkle in exports is an intention to market in Canada fresh-cut flowers and vegetables, hermetically sealed in cellophane into which a refrigerating gas has been pumped. Flowers packed this way have been sold in South America and have been fresh three weeks after cutting in Holland.

Extension of air freight between Montreal and Amsterdam in this and other ways is foreseen. Already the Royal Dutch Air Lines (K.L.M.) are operating through Montreal and Trans-Canada Air Lines are negotiating for similar rights at Schiphol, Amsterdam's airport.

The invisible exports earned by Holland's carrying services are important dollar earners.

Though she lost half her considerable merchant marine during the war, Holland's freighter and passenger-carrying fleet is back at its prewar more than 2,000,000 tons. A large shipbuilding program is foreseen, however, as most of the Victory and Liberty ships making up losses will have to be replaced within the next 15 years.

Says First Child Discourages More

LONDON (CP)—A young mother's loneliness after her first child is born often leads to a decision to have no more, says a Peckham health centre report.

The ties imposed by parenthood cause many young mothers to feel cut off from their friends, the report says.

"In her loneliness and inexperience, the mother surrounds the child with anxiety and protectiveness. In time, the constant proximity of the two, the anxiousness of the mother and the answering peevishness of the child, produce misery."

"The mother is tied to the child. Her husband loses her companionship. Small wonder that out of their mutual dissatisfaction in parenthood they often resolve to have no more children."

British Women Receive Praise From Lecturer Elmore Philpott

The women of Britain received high praise from Elmore Philpott, radio commentator, lecturer and newspaperman, in his address to the Victoria Women's Canadian Club, Tuesday afternoon in the Crystal Garden, on Impressions gained in a 38-day tour of western Europe and the British Isles.

"I bow to the British housewife," Mr. Philpott said, "who took the bombings without a murmur, accepted the wartime shortages with a smile and now, in the face of continued restrictions and the terrific let-down occasioned by the drab sameness of this postwar period, continues to produce meals with magical deftness, to keep the household running smoothly, and still with a smile."

Countrywomen of Germany also came in for a word of praise as Mr. Philpott gave a word picture of the German farm country. "All beautifully cultivated."

"Big difference between our own farmlands and the German countryside, was the absence of mechanized power," he said. "In fact there did not seem to even be any animal power. It was all women power. Old women and young women and all doing an excellent job. I did not see a single man working on the German farms."

Following a brief description of conditions in France, "where economic conditions are so well integrated the country is almost self-sufficient," Belgium, "which appears to be a boom country"; Holland, "not so prosperous, but neat, clean and with many repairs, completed," Switzerland and Italy, Mr. Philpott spoke of the British Isles.

He told his audience that despite the present crisis, there was much that was good and encouraging to be found there.

"One of the finest achievements—which should be a challenge to the whole world—is that everything in the country is now so completely and fairly shared that the whole populace has been

Uncle Escorts Bride In St. Paul's Church Nuptial Service

Quietly, before close friends and immediate family members, nuptial vows were exchanged Monday at 8.15 in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church by Eleanor Waterman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Dopp, 543 Oliver Street, and Albert Geoghegan, Victoria, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Geoghegan.

H. W. Curtis gave his niece in marriage in a service conducted by Rev. Conkie.

She wore navy and pink accessories with her pearl grey tailored suit in fine wool. Her navy silk taffeta hat was trimmed in pink.

A mauve orchid centred her muff bouquet of beige white chrysanthemums tied with white tulle.

Mr. and Mrs. Stan Britt attended the couple, the latter in cocoa brown gabardine suit, matching hat with pink feather trim, and pink accessories. Mrs. Britt carried a muff similar to that of the bride's, centred with pink carnations.

A reception followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Sharpe, 1285 Grant Street, where huge baskets of white chrysanthemums and Michaelmas daisies formed the setting.

Sweet peas in tiny vases, and tall pink candles in silver holders flanked the three-tier cake. Rev. Conkie proposed the toast.

Mr. and Mrs. Geoghegan are motoring up-island, and on the mainland to the interior. Later they will return to the city to make their home.

For travelling, the bride added a full-length muskrat fur coat to her wedding suit, and wore her mauve orchid in corsage.

Newlyweds Manitoba Bound To Visit Groom's Parents

Austin, Man., home of the groom's parents, is the honeymoon destination of Ralph Albert Blaine, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Blaine, and his bride, Frances Kathryn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bergeron, 147 Olive Street, formerly of Pouce Coupe, B.C.

The groom, stationed aboard H.M.C.S. Ontario, and his bride, repeated vows Tuesday at 7 p.m. in Bishop's Palace, St. Andrew's Cathedral, before Father J. H. LaPorte, H.M.C.S. Naden.

Fragrant gardenias intermingled with red roses were mounted on a white prayer book, carried by the bride as she was given in marriage by her father.

Her gown of ivory satin was fashioned with sheer yoke outlined in bugle beads, fitted bodice, leg o' mutton sleeves and full skirt en train.

Bugle beads and seed pearls were repeated on her satin coronet crowning the full-length veil, and she wore a pearl necklace, gift of the groom.

Bridesmaid for her cousin, Miss Joyce Bergeron, Portland, wore light green taffeta with fitted bodice emphasized by full skirt. She had a sweetheart headpiece of net and carried white and pink carnations in her colonial bouquet.

Miss Myrna Haggart, bridesmaid, wore a fitted gown in aqua satin, with full skirt and sheer yoke. Her headpiece was of flowers and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Bert Palmer attended the groom as best man, and Edward Bergeron, brother of the bride, from New Westminster, was usher.

More than 100 guests attended a reception in Terry's rose room.

The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bergeron, the latter wearing a floor-length gown in royal blue, assisted in receiving. J. E. K. English proposed the toast, and the couple cut their three-tier cake.

For the wedding trip to Manitoba, the bride changed to a three-piece dusky rose suit, navy blue hat and accessories and corsage bouquet of gardenias and red roses.

On return, Mr. and Mrs. Blaine will live at 548 Northcott Avenue.

Loneliest Island
Calls Woman Back

EDINBURGH, Tristan da Cunha (CP) — After nearly a year in Britain, Mrs. A. E. Handley will return to the world's loneliest island, Tristan da Cunha, as school-mistress. Mrs. Handley is the widow of the former Anglican chaplain here.

At the beginning of this year, after her husband died, Mrs. Handley went back to Britain, but now she has offered to go back to this lonely rock in mid-Atlantic, 2,000 miles west of the Cape of Good Hope.

Women Doctors
Honor Pioneer
On Centenary

NEW YORK (CP) — "Sir, I thank you. By the help of the Most High, it shall be the effort of my life to shed honor upon this diploma."

The crowded gallery leaned forward to hear the words of the young medical student as she stepped forward with tears of joy in her eyes to receive her diploma from the university president.

The year was 1849, and the event a precedent-breaking one, since Elizabeth Blackwell was the first "lady doctor" to graduate in the United States.

It had been a long, hard fight for her. Born in Bristol, England, in 1821, Elizabeth Blackwell emigrated with her parents to the United States in 1831. She was determined to become a doctor and, after years of private study, sought admittance at a medical school.

But, one after another, they refused her application. Finally she tried Geneva College, now Hobart College, in New York state. There the matter was referred to the student body.

The young men put the matter to a vote. Unanimously, they decided to allow her to enter their classes.

But the obtaining of her medical certificate was only the first battle for recognition in the medical world for Elizabeth Blackwell.

LOST SIGHT OF EYE

Only after working in a maternity hospital in Paris, where she lost the sight of one eye, and in London, where she served as an interne at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, did she return to this country and open a small dispensary in New York city.

In 1853, Dr. Blackwell proposed incorporation of a New York infirmary for indigent women and children. She beseeched business men, writers, publishers and others for help. Through their help, in 1854, she and her sister, Emily, who became America's first woman surgeon, and Dr. Marie Zakrewska, a Polish noblewoman whom Elizabeth had met in Europe, were able to open their first infirmary in three small rooms.

The next year, the women moved the infirmary to a three-story building with 12 beds and personally raised $5000 needed for rent and equipment.

Today, over 9,000 women doctors throughout the country are observing the 100th anniversary of Elizabeth's Blackwell's graduation by trying to raise $5,000,000 for a new infirmary building.

A Private Affair

ORANGE, Australia (CP) — Members of the Australian Countrywomen's Association decided by the narrow margin of one vote that a woman's age is strictly her own affair. They decided to object to the practice of giving the ages of women in the press and over the radio.

Teeth need frequent brushing to prevent decay. The toothbrush should be moved up and down, not only across the teeth. Inside surfaces should not be forgotten. Proper brushing, plus a visit to the dentist once every six months will save a lot of trouble later on.

Former Ontario Woman Combines Home
Duties With International Affairs

BIGWATER, Ont. (CP) — A South African housewife who is as much at home in a chancellory as she is in a kitchen sat down with top-ranking political and economic leaders here recently and talked of the problems facing the Commonwealth.

She is Mrs. Erwin Schuller of Johannesburg, better known to Canadians as Mary Craig McGeachy of Sarnia, Ont., who made a name for herself in the 1930s as an expert on international affairs and held high British government posts in the war years.

She was one of five women delegates to the fourth unofficial Commonwealth Relations Conference, which was attended by nearly 100 outstanding leaders of political, social and economic thought from the Commonwealth.

A friendly, smiling woman of gracious personality, her accomplishments extend into the diplomatic field. From 1939 to 1944, she was a member of the British embassy in Washington and for three of those years—1942-44—she was first secretary of the embassy, first woman to receive such diplomatic ranking.

But, she told reporters here during the conference sessions, her accomplishments now are confined, first and foremost, to being a housewife and the wife of Erwin Schuller, British banker, to whom she was married shortly after the end of the war. They now live in Johannesburg, where Mr. Schuller is posted.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRID

DOES YOUR CHILD
EAT DIRT?

The appetite for uneatable materials which some children exhibit, may stem from two sources. Children are not discriminating about what they put in their mouths and do not, until taught, have the same distaste for dirt that influences adults. They put almost anything into their mouths and they may develop a taste for this nauseating material.

It may be caused by some dietary deficiency which may cause the child to find satisfaction in eating materials which are not regarded as food. This habit should not be ignored but should be dealt with through education and improvement in the diet.

Mrs. C. H. says her 18-month-old daughter eats sand and dirt constantly. "She actually crams it into her mouth by the handfuls. She is 31 inches tall, weighs 24 pounds and is quite chubby."

"She has one of the prepared baby cereals for breakfast. At lunch she has fruit, vegetables, bread and butter and for supper she has cereal or an egg, bread, butter and milk. This is supplemented by numerous graham crackers and milk between meals."

"Is this diet adequate? Is there something lacking in it which makes her crave dirt? I forgot to say that every other day she has strained meat with her vegetables. She still takes a bottle. I will certainly appreciate your advice."

Her diet should contain an egg or meat, or both, every day. She should have a dessert of gelatine, or custard each day, and thus increase her protein intake. It might be wise to eliminate the between-meal crackers and milk temporarily and the bottle permanently. She is old enough to drink as much milk as she needs from a cup and less milk may inspire a better appetite for solid foods.

Try salting her food a little more heavily; some mothers

MAPLE RAISIN MUFFINS.
Maple syrup and seedless raisins make these muffins different and delicious. The two flavors are natural in this muffin, but quick bread. Your family will eat these maple raisin muffins often once you've made them.

One cup seedless raisins, 1 egg, 1/4 cup melted shortening, 1/2 cup maple-flavored syrup, 1/2 cup milk, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt.

Rinse raisins and drain thoroughly. Beat egg, blend in shortening, syrup, milk and raisins. Sift together dry ingredients, and add all at once to first mixture, stirring only until moistened. Fill greased muffin pans 2/3 full. Bake in hot oven (400° degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Makes one dozen medium-sized muffins.

World's Oldest Sheep

INVERCARGILL, N.Z. (CP) — New Zealand claims to have the world's oldest sheep—a ewe on a farm in Southland which has reached the age of 19 years. The age of the ewe is well authenticated as it was a pet lamb and has always received special care and attention. Officials of the agriculture department have no records of a sheep having reached such an age before.

Lighting By-law Coming In Saanich

A money by-law to provide Wards Two and Seven and the remainder of Ward One with an improved street-lighting system, is the aim of Saanich Council for presentation to the ratepayers concerned at the coming December elections.

S. Fairhurst, 1040 Leslie Drive, will be told that the council hopes to be able to present this by-law at that time. He asked the council in a letter read Tuesday night for the installation of a street light on Leslie and will be told the drive is included in the larger scheme.

Council has plans to present several other money by-laws at the same elections.

Tillicum-Burnside Area To Remain Commercial Zone

"There'll be lots heard on the question when this is published," predicted Councillor Leslie Passmore, Ward Seven, after Saanich Council Tuesday night decided to let the Tillicum-Burnside area remain zoned for commercial purposes.

Council decision was made after a public hearing had been held in the council chamber. Mr. Passmore was the only one who registered an opposing vote to the property concerned remaining zoned for commercial purposes.

Hearing was called when application was received to have Tillicum Road from Gorge to Burnside Road and Burnside from Tillicum to Harriet rezoned for residential purposes. It was pointed out to council by Reeve E. C. Warren this area was zoned for commercial purposes in a move which started in 1941 and was finally passed by council in 1945.

William Heller Sr. told the council he had bought property, earmarked as commercial, on Tillicum for the purpose of establishing a coffee bar. People in the future would not have much faith in Saanich Council if it changed the zoning regulations after property had been purchased for a commercial purpose, he said.

A. Cowpersmith was the main speaker for those wishing Tillicum from Obed to Burnside switched for residential use only. He pointed to the petition bearing names of ratepayers wishing this.

Councillors John G. Ryan, Ward Two, and William E. Bond, Ward One, favored the area being left for commercial purposes.

Finish Graveling Saanich Roads In '49

H. D. Dawson, municipal engineer, reported to Saanich Council Tuesday night that the Dawson-Wade road construction contractors busy on rehabilitating many main roads and bus routes, will finish the graveling this year, but the grading will be done next year. The program is expected to be finished in the late spring or early summer.

To Enforce License For Rooming Houses In Saanich Area

License Inspector Roy Wootten of Saanich was given authority by the council Tuesday night to consult the municipal solicitor in regard to taking legal action against rooming and apartment houses which are not licensed.

It was pointed out to the council that these buildings had to comply with the provisions of the Apartment House By-law before they could be licensed and that this embodied having adequate sanitary and fire protection.

Mr. Wootten said there were seven houses involved. J. S. Taylor, building inspector, said several of them could not be fixed up to comply with the by-law and he told of one case where children have to climb up a ladder over a stove in order to get to windowless sleeping quarters.

"We are morally obligated if any catastrophe occurs in allowing these places to continue to operate when we know their bad condition," said Reeve E. C. Warren, who urged the council to take decisive steps.

Seek Resumption Of Bus Service

H. D. Dawson, municipal engineer of Saanich, was authorized by Saanich Council Tuesday night to see officials of the Dawson-Wade road constructing firm about improving Richmond Road from Mayfair Drive north to Cedar Hill Crossroad to enable the resumption of the B.C. E.R. bus service there.

A letter was read from Reginald Cooper, 1720 Kisher Avenue, voicing the complaint of residents throughout that area about the discontinuance of the bus service owing to the condition of the road, now under reconstruction.

Councillor W. E. Bond of that ward said that the buses had stopped traveling that portion because of the sharp drop from the paved portion to the newly torn up and gravelled portion, but believed the construction company could remedy this. The B.C. Electric will be notified of the action of Dawson-Wade to rectify the condition.

Mr. Cooper urged immediate action to get the bus service resumed before the heavy winter rains set in.

Plan Duplexes For Elderly Couples

A public hearing may be called early in October on the application presented to Saanich Council by the law firm of Clay & MacFarlane to rezone a lot on the corner of Cedar Hill Road and Cedar Hill Crossroad for the erection of several duplexes for elderly couples.

J. S. Taylor, building inspector, told the council Tuesday night that his department had approved of the plans. Subject to the approval of the sanitary inspector, the municipal clerk will be asked to call a public hearing.

Approve Boundary Road Deal With City

At its meeting Tuesday night, Saanich Council put its stamp of approval to the plan of paying half the cost of maintenance of boundary roads between the city and the municipality. Each will have to look after about 8,700 feet, H. D. Dawson, municipal engineer, reported.

Wants Third Polling Station In Ward 6

Application of Councillor W. C. Kersey, representing the turbulent Ward Six area, to have a third polling station established in the large ward, was promised consideration by Saanich Council meeting Tuesday night. Mr. Kersey, who has been promised a fight for the ward seat with the entry of Sydney Pickles into the political field, asked that the station be located in Saanichton.

The ancient water-clock was known as a clepsydra.

'Nail' Salesman

License Inspector Roy Wootten told Saanich Council Tuesday night that $25 licenses had been collected from each of two men operating from the same firm in selling wares at tea parties arranged in certain homes for the purpose of them swinging their salesmanship into play. Complaints of organized licensed businesses in Saanich against such "raids" led to the council ordering the inspector to impose the licenses.

Approve Plan For Rock Gas Business

Saanich Council Tuesday night gave permission to Arthur Brookman to carry on a business of storing and distributing rock gas and its associated appliances at the modern community centre being established at the north-east corner of Gorge and Admirals Road. He was advised, however, that this would only be possible if he complies with the Fire Marshal's and building inspector's regulations. The new centre is known as Craigflower Bridge Store Ltd.

Saanich Celebrations Delegates Named

Councillors William E. Bond, Ward One, and E. P. Cummins, Ward Four, have been named Saanich delegates to participate in the activities of the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association, 1110 Government Street, in shaping the 1950 edition of the May 24 celebrations program. Association will hold its annual meeting in the City Hall Dec. 28.

Laud Program For School Children

"It's a fine educational feature for our youth," commented Reeve E. C. Warren and Councillor Kenneth R. Genn, Ward Five, when Saanich Council on Tuesday night voted to cooperate with the Eagles Club in promoting the annual "Future Citizens' Day" Oct. 15.

X-Ray Feared When First Discovered, Doctor States

Discovery of X-ray by Roentgen of the University of Wurzburg in 1895 stirred the public imagination to such an extent that some of the most fantastic articles were published on the subject at the time. Dr. T. A. Watson, director of the Saskatchewan Cancer Commission, told delegates attending the annual meeting of the B.C. Medical Association today.

Dr. Watson, speaking on advances in radiotherapy, said concern regarding the use of X-ray became so great in some quarters that on Feb. 19, 1896, a U.S. assemblyman introduced a bill into the House at Trenton, New Jersey, prohibiting the use of X-ray in opera glasses at the theatres.

In London, Eng., a manufacturing firm advertised the sale of X-ray proof underclothing, he said. It was also reported in New York papers at the College of Physicians and Surgeons the Roentgen rays were used to reflect anatomic diagrams directly into the brains of students.

Interest in the new rays was immediately so great, the speaker said, that in 1896 over 1,000 articles and 50 books were published on the subject.

While the medical applications of X-ray were quickly appreciated, the speaker said, the X-ray apparatus for the first five years was treated more like an interesting toy than a weapon of value in medicine.

The speaker pointed out that the dangerous properties of X-ray were quickly brought to the attention of early workers by the occurrence of burns on the hands.

"This indeed is a tragic chapter," he said, "many an experimenter was maimed or even lost his life through over exposure."

Speaking on the direct application of X-ray to deep seated tumors, which have been surgically exposed, Dr. Watson said during the past ten years tumors have been quickly healed by the use of X-ray.

Dr. Watson pointed out that in recent years manufacturers have been building more and more powerful X-ray machines. "The most powerful so far built is of 2,000,000 volts," he said. "The most powerful used in Canada is below 500,000 volts."

"One may well ask what are the advantages of higher X-rays," he said. "Most of the advantages of the higher voltages are in their physical properties. The higher the voltage the more penetrating the rays, and the greater the percentage reaching deeper parts. Further, with conventional voltages, such as 200,000, there is considerable difference in the absorption of the X-rays by various tissues."

May Ask Loose Rope At Calgary Stampede

CALGARY (BUP)—J. F. Maxwell, secretary of the Cowboys' Protective Association, said a vote was to be taken among members of the association on whether they favored the loose rope or "dally" form of calf roping as against "tied" roping. He said that following announcement of the vote next December, promoters of the Calgary Stampede might be asked to return to the loose rope. At present the Stampede uses the "tied" rope.

There was some agitation following the 1949 Stampede for the abolition of the tied form of roping because several calves were severely jerked down and injured, Maxwell said. A few of them had to be destroyed.

A meeting of the C.P.A. was held during the Stampede and several Canadian ropers petitioned for a return of the "loose" rope style, Maxwell added.

Under the "loose" rope system the roper does not tie his rope hard and fast to the saddle horn. When he makes his catch the roper stops to "dally" the end of the rope around the saddle horn for several wraps before he goes down the rope to make the throw and tie.

Using the faster "tied" rope method the cowboy has the rope tied hard and fast to the saddle horn and after making his catch the roper goes down the rope for the throw and tie without loss of time.

Official Home In Ottawa Suggested For Prime Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—Should Canada have an equivalent of No. 10 Downing Street, the traditional home of the United Kingdom's prime ministers?

Cabinet decision is believed near on an issue which involves indirectly, among other things, the question of whether Mrs. St. Laurent is to have adequate room for her bottled preserves and her relatives.

Some Liberal members of Parliament think there should be an official residence, but cabinet hesitation may be linked to a desire for a more widespread expression of approval.

The Liberals said so in the last Parliament. They are saying so again now that a new Parliament has started and Mr. and Mrs. St. Laurent, frequently visited by members of their big family, are living in a downtown, five-room apartment. Mrs. St. Laurent once stored preserves under the bed because there was nowhere else to put them.

The members do not mention these personal things, but they say, instead, that Canada's dignity as a nation and Ottawa's dignity as a capital require a home for the Prime Minister.

At the cabinet level, the subject has been under consideration for months and one house, already owned by the government, has been singled out. It is known as the Edwards Estate and it is a great old grey stone home that stands on a bluff above the Ottawa River, not far from the centre of the city.

It has been occupied for some time by Rt. Hon. Francis Forde as his headquarters as High Commissioner for Australia. The Australians would like to stay there. It's a pretty spot.

OVEN-SHAPED NEST

Doctor Experiments To Reduce Heart Disease Deaths

REGINA (BUP)—When diabetic rabbits start dying of heart attacks here, Dr. N. G. B. McLetchie will have comforting news for the overworked businessman nudging 50.

Experiments with rabbits are being conducted by Dr. McLetchie to find a cure for atheroma, a heart disease which occurred in all civilized races, especially among those suffering from diabetes and mental strain, he said.

Thousands of men died each year in their prime as a result of atheroma, the only common cause of sudden death after 50, the doctor said.

Dr. McLetchie explained these sudden deaths occurred because the lining of blood vessels leading to the heart muscles became coated with a patchy thickening.

Scientists believed this thickening was an accumulation of material collected very slowly from the blood stream and deposited on the lining of the blood vessels. The coating gradually cut off the blood supply to the heart or retarded it, and when the condition became severe, death would often result from heart failure.

MINUTE STUDY

Dr. McLetchie said his experiments were to get atheroma disease into the blood vessels of rabbits, so that he would be able to make a minute study of it and possibly find out what caused the deposit on the blood vessels.

Atheroma had never been seen in animals, except in parrots and old monkeys, Dr. McLetchie said. But he couldn't wait for parrots and monkeys to get old and was trying to disease the rabbits.

A rabbit was generally contented and very different from an ambitious person, Dr. McLetchie said. The rabbit normally had too philosophical an attitude toward life to develop atheroma, making artificial conditions necessary to produce the disease.

When, and if he finally succeeded and came up with a rabbit that resembled, at least to the scientific eye, a tired businessman suffering from atheroma, the first step would be over. From then on, the rabbit would become an effective method to check the growth of atheroma and the degeneration of blood vessels.

The experiments were a work which some day might vitally affect the life span of thousands of men, particularly business executives who toiled and worried in their offices.

'LAYOFF' BUT NO STRIKE—Three young train enthusiasts, lured to a park in Kansas City by thoughts of a ride on the miniature train, found the tracks in place, but that's about all. Although the insignia on the station bore the name of the strike-bound Missouri-Pacific lines, that wasn't the cause of the "layoff." The traffic tie-up is a seasonal one—most of the passengers have to chug back to school in September so the train just shuts down for the winter.

Prime Minister To Speak At Young Liberals' Convention

MONTREAL.—Convention headquarters of the Young Liberal Federation of Canada were jubilant when confirmation was received from the Prime Minister's office in Ottawa that Mr. St. Laurent would be able to address the delegates during the course of the convention scheduled here for Oct. 12, 13 and 14.

In making this announcement, C. A. Durand, Montreal businessman and president of the federation, specified Mr. St. Laurent would speak at the main banquet of the convention.

According to Mr. Durand, the forthcoming convention bids well to be the largest and the most enthusiastic ever held. All provinces have indicated they would send representative delegations. From Victoria to St. John, Nfld., the younger element of the Liberal Party is preparing to make this first national convention since the war a big show of strength of Liberalism among the youth of the country.

FROM NEWFOUNDLAND—The convention claims a few firsts. Aside from being the first convention since prior to the war, it is the first time a delegation from Newfoundland will attend a national political convention, of any sort and the first time the young Liberals have chosen a city in Quebec Province to hold their deliberations.

"The assurance of a large and enthusiastic delegation from Newfoundland is particularly gratifying," said Mr. Durand. "We welcome our new brothers to our discussions and we feel that their presence will add in great measure to their fruitfulness. As in the rest of Canada, said Mr. Durand, the last federal election has brought about renewed enthusiasm in the ranks of young Liberals in Newfoundland."

"Western Canada and the Maritime provinces promise larger delegations than at any other previous convention, while Ontario seems destined to surpass all other provinces in numbers and constituency representation, with the possible exception of Quebec, where the convention is being held."

BRADLEY TO ATTEND—Marking the presence of the Newfoundland delegation will be the visit of Hon. Gordon Bradley, Canada's Secretary of State, who hails from the tenth province and who will address the delegates at a luncheon. Among members of the federal cabinet due to meet the delegates, Mr. Durand made special mention of Postmaster-General Rinfret, who was himself an active Young Liberal just a few years ago and a past president of the Montreal unit of the federation.

Russia To Return 30 U.S. Navy Ships Lent In World War

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia agreed formally today to return 30 United States naval vessels loaned to the Soviets in World War II.

The ships are to be given back by Dec. 1. They include three ice-breakers and 27 frigates, which are small patrol craft.

The United States has been trying to get them back for four years.

Soviet Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin and Willard Thorp, Assistant Secretary of State, signed an agreement at the State Department today for negotiations which started early last month.

The ice-breakers will be returned to U.S. naval authorities at the port of Bremerhaven, Germany, and the frigates will be delivered at Yokosuka, Japan.

There were originally 28 of the frigates, but Russia advised that one had run on the rocks. Reporters were told by Press Officer Michael J. McDermott that more specific information has been promised.

Motorist Drives Off After Hitting Wall

A 1931 model sedan which crashed into a rock wall at 1246 Fairfield Road at 12:35 Sunday morning did not remain at the scene, city police reported.

The wall was damaged by the impact.

Oldest Settlement In Sask. Celebrates

CUMBERLAND HOUSE, Sask. (BUP)—Provincial officials recalled some of the history of this community, the oldest permanent settlement in Saskatchewan, as it marked its 175th year of existence.

Samuel Hearne, an explorer and early surveyor for the historic Hudson's Bay Company, founded the first post here in 1774. Established to recapture the fur trade which was gradually being taken over by free traders or "pedlars," the post was named after an 18th century English nobleman, the Duke of Cumberland.

Bitter rivalry between the Hudson's Bay Company and the North-West Company centred here at one time in the long history of the settlement. The two finally joined under the Hudson's Bay banner.

Cumberland House was once the main headquarters of the Hudson's Bay governor of Rupert's Land, which included much of what is now the Canadian prairie provinces and the North-west Territories.

The great trading post of those days has gone, but provincial officials said the settlement has continued to be a source of supplies and is still an important post in the present day fur trade of northern Saskatchewan.

INTELLIGENT DECLARER BEATS OUT OPPONENT

There is a knack in recognizing a good bridge hand after you have played it. Some players give me all squeeze plays, others think the most thrilling hands are strip and end plays.

When I get a hand from Herman Goldberg of New York City, I can count on it to be an all-round good hand. And he always has a good story in connection with his hand.

Goldberg says, "Very often you play with a partner who has too much confidence in you. He will put you in a slam contract and then will look at you just as much as to say, 'you can do the impossible!'" Herman was playing with one of those admiring but I did not count on that admiring partner of mine. He bid four hearts."

Goldberg won the opening lead of the queen of clubs with the king and led a small heart to the king, which East won with the ace. At this point if East had returned a club he would have defeated the contract. But as Herman said, "he did not like the idea of leading into the ace of clubs, so East cashed the ace of spades. I played the king. He continued with the jack of spades which I won with the queen.

When it came to the last trump play I had the king-ten of diamonds and ace-ten of clubs in dummy. East had the ace-queen of diamonds and jack-nine of clubs. I discarded the ten of diamonds. East thought for a moment and dropped the queen of diamonds. So I led a diamond and threw him in. He had to lead from his jack-nine of clubs into by ace-ten, and I made my contract."

"Most tooth loss comes from gum troubles," say dentists.

FIGHT TOOTH DECAY AND GUM TROUBLES BOTH!

New dental research proves you can help prevent tooth decay as you guard your gums — this doubly-effective Ipana way!

DENTISTS SAY THE IPANA WAY PROMOTES HEALTHIER GUMS!

In thousands of recent reports from all over the country, dentists say the Ipana way promotes healthier gums. That's just as important as fighting decay, for dentists warn that you can't have healthy teeth without healthy gums! Try this dentist-approved Ipana care—for healthier teeth and healthier gums both.

DENTAL RESEARCH SHOWS HOW IPANA FIGHTS DECAY!

Scientific research based on daily dental examinations now proves that every time, any time you brush your teeth with Ipana, it helps fight tooth decay by effectively reducing and keeping down the acid-forming bacteria. No other paste or powder is more effective for this purpose. And Ipana helps remove bacteria-trapping deposits that invite decay.

Dentists warn that if you want to save your teeth, you must protect your teeth and gums both.

For not only does tooth decay cause untold misery and expense. Gum troubles cause even more tooth losses than decay, according to leading dental authorities. And gum troubles can strike anyone—even healthy youngsters and teen-agers—with little warning!

Now you and your family can help prevent tooth decay and gum troubles BOTH—with doubly-effective Ipana dental care.

For new dental research now proves that Ipana's own special formula effectively reduces and keeps down acid-forming bacteria—considered a major cause of tooth decay. Ipana fully meets these standards for an anti-decay dentifrice.

And more—Ipana is the only leading tooth paste specially designed to stimulate gum circulation—promote healthier gums.

HERE'S THE DENTIST-APPROVED IPANA WAY — EASY AS 1, 2:

1. Between regular visits to your dentist, brush all tooth surfaces with Ipana after every meal. (Ipana's special cleansing formula helps prevent tooth decay—leaves teeth cleaner.)
2. Then massage gums the way your dentist advises. (Ipana's unique formula stimulates circulation—promotes healthier gums.)

Cougars Open Practice Sessions

You have to hand it to "The Silver Fox." Yes, Lester Patrick, Cougars' owner, was out for the initial workout of the club last night and on his arrival at the arena found a full set of goalkeeping equipment awaiting him in the dressing room. Patrick didn't don the pads but was out on the ice with the rest of the players. In top left-hand corner Patrick's name—designating his locker-room position—can be seen.

Eight Players Attend First Puck Workout

Light skating marked the opening of the Victoria Cougars' training period at the Memorial Ice Arena last night with eight members of the team in attendance.

Regular practices began this morning, and will be held daily from 9:30 to 11:30 each morning until the season opener Oct. 8.

Those in uniform last night were coach Eddie Wares, Eddie Marneau and Bud James, all defencemen; Bernie Strongman, centre; Allan Senior, Larry Thibault and Joe Evans, left wingers; and Roy McKay, right wing. Owner Lester Patrick was one of the first to try the new ice and rink manager Joe Dutkowski also donned the skates to take part in the workout.

Goalie Jerry Fodey, recently purchased from the Tacoma Rockets, will arrive today. Dutkowski announced that the arena would be closed to spectators until further notice during the Cougars' training sessions.

The training grind opened for the Victoria Cougars at the Memorial Arena last night with eight members of the club on hand for the light skating session. Shown in varying stages of dress as they prepare to take the ice are, left to right, Joe Evans, Eddie Marneau, coach Eddie Wares, Alan Senior, Roy McKay, Bud James and Larry Thibault.

Boucher Tabs 1949-50 Rangers As Best Team Since Before War

The familiar pre-season word has come from New York Rangers' training camp: a National Hockey League and Stanley Cup-winning team is in the making.

That's the word from Frank (Raffie) Boucher, Ranger pilot who has seen the Rangers tabbed as "also rans" since they won their last Stanley Cup. That was in the 1939-40 campaign. He figures he's got the best New York squad since the Second World War for the 1949-50 season.

Said the Ottawa-born manager at the Rangers' Lake Placid, N.Y., training camp Tuesday:

"This year's Ranger squad is by far the best group we've had since before the war. In past years we've had spots to fill in each season but didn't have the players to fill them... This year we've got the players."

Fans will get a glimpse of the Rangers when they meet Montreal Canadiens Oct. 15 at Montreal. The six-team league starts

Oct. 12 when Boston Bruins clash with Detroit Red Wings at Detroit.

Boucher said that Neil Colville, 35-year-old mainstay of the Rangers, is in hospital suffering an ulcer condition. Colville is expected to be released within a few days — after X-rays have been taken.

The Bruins have been tuning up for the coming season at their Hershey, Pa., training camp. About 67 players, including representatives from Hershey Bears of the American League and Tulsa Oilers of the United States League have taken part.

The teams will play a double-header tonight—the first in a series of exhibition games. Boston and Hershey meet in one tilt and an all-star team plays Tulsa in the other.

TORONTO CUTS SQUAD

In the Toronto Maple Leafs'

camp, officials have cut their team to the bare minimum of 18 players. Intensive line reshuffling now is under way.

Bashing Bill Ezinicki of Winnipeg Tuesday signed a 1949-50 contract at the Leafs' camp and Bob Dawes of Saskatoon, agreed to terms, Conn Smythe said.

HAR ROOKIE SHINES

At St. Hyacinthe, Que., where the National Hockey League Montreal Canadiens are staging their pre-season training camp, the talk is about young Gilles Dube.

Dube, 163-pound, left-winger with Sherbrooke St. Francis of the Quebec Senior Hockey League last year, last night slammed six goals past goalie Gordie Bell, to lead the "reds" to a 12 to 7 victory over the "whites" in an intra-squad, hour-long hockey game.

To Revamp United Line-Up; North Shore Here Saturday

Although the revamped starting line-up has not been announced, it is expected that Tommy Druce, who played, a bang-up game in the centre forward position for the Victoria United club before his untimely injury in the opening match of the season, will be back in action Saturday when the local club stacks up against powerful North Shore United.

United officials are still in the dark as far as a coach is concerned, but secretary Charlie Faulkner announced they had several prospects in mind.

The Dominion champion North Shore squad has already marked up two victories in as many starts and are currently sharing the leaders' post in the Pacific Coast Soccer League with St. Andrews. Game will be played at Athletic Park, starting at 2.30. United will play host to St. Andrews here on Oct. 8, and then journey to the Royal City the following Monday—Thanksgiving Day—to engage the New Westminster eleven.

Remaining games on the first-half schedule for the local club are Oct. 22 against Nafalmo here, Oct. 29 at New Westminster, Nov. 5 against North Shore here, and Nov. 12 against St. Andrews at Vancouver.

Eight Teams Enter Mainland Cage Loop

VANCOUVER (CP)—With two new teams—Aretie Club and Y.M.C.A.—voted into the fold, the eight-team Intercity A Basketball League will swing into action near the end of October.

Last year's teams—Clover Leaf, Eagle-Times, Arrows, New Westminster Luckies, U.B.C. Braves and U.B.C. Chiefs—will operate again. And, according to the coaches, the loop should be well-balanced with calibre of play decidedly better than last season.

Newly-elected league officials are planning on a central operating base for the loop, possibly Exhibition Gardens, the auditorium or King Edward High School gym.

Capital City Club Announces Skating Plans For Season

The Capital City Skating Club, formed under the auspices of the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association, will commence season's activities as soon as ice is available, secretary Howard Leggett announced today.

The club will be divided into five divisions with skating to be held Sunday afternoons from 2.30 to 4.30 Sunday evenings, from 8 to 10 and Saturday evenings from 8 to 10. The season will be of approximately seven months duration.

Organized with the object of providing healthful sport and companionship for its members the club will form its own committees from the membership. Such committees will promote season activities of the club.

"Duke" Dutkowski, arena manager, is an ex-officio member of the club and will give the benefit of his experience in similar clubs to the local organization.

In order to ensure good skating and prevent overcrowding the club will limit membership in each division to 500.

Hawks In Second

Win Over Farm Club

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP)—Chicago Black Hawks scored their second straight victory over their farm hands, Kansas City Pla-Mors, here last night, 5 to 1. The Blackhawks rang up a 3 to 1 verdict in the opening game.

Bep Guidolin, Gus Bodnar, Bill Gadsby, Ernie Dickens and Ray Powell scored for Chicago. Veteran Hank Blade spoiled goaler Frank Brimsek's bid for a shut-out at the 19:04 mark of the third period.

K.V.'s PRACTICE
K.V.'s senior B basketball team will hold a practice at Fraser Street Gym tonight at 9. All players interested are invited to attend.

Pirates Thorn In Side Of Cardinals

The St. Louis Cardinals' violation of the unwritten baseball rule, "let sleeping dogs lie," could cost them the National League pennant.

Pittsburgh's Pirates, a docile sixth-place club when Ralph Kiner isn't on the prowl, act like a pack of roaring lions when they clash with St. Louis—chiefly because of an early-season feud.

The Pirates are one reason the Cards lead Brooklyn Dodgers by only one game today. They have beaten the Cards 11 times in 21 meetings this season. On the other hand, they won only six games out of 22 from Brooklyn.

Pittsburgh chopped the Cards' advantage last night by scoring a 6 to 4 triumph over their despised rivals before 27,283 fans. The Dodgers were idle.

While the Pirates jolted the Cards, Boston Red Sox downed their "cousins," Washington Senators, 6 to 4, to protect their one-game American League lead over New York Yankees. The Yankees defeated Philadelphia Athletics, 3 to 1, in the afternoon.

The Pirate feud with the Cards began early in the season when Ken Johnson, young Card left-hander, beaned shortstop Stan Rojek. The Pirates charged that Card catcher Joe Garagiola had deliberately called for the bean ball. Garagiola and Card manager Eddie Dyer denied the accusation, but the Pirates were firm in their conviction.

The Cards clash again with Pittsburgh today, while the Dodgers open a two-game series with the Braves in Boston. Both the Cards and Dodgers have four games left to play.

Both the Yankees and Red Sox have four games left to play. In the only other game yesterday, Cleveland Indians shaded Chicago White Sox, 3 to 2, on Joe Gordon's ninth-inning single, and Cincinnati Reds took Chicago Cubs, 5 to 4.

Short scores follow:

Coast League Clubs Open Post-Season Playoffs Tonight

It's first-place Hollywood versus third-place Sacramento and second-place Oakland against fourth-place San Diego in tonight's openers of the Pacific Coast League playoffs.

A pot of $35,000 will be divided when the playoffs are completed two weeks hence.

Willie Ramsdell (18-12) will start against the Solons at Gilmore Field in Hollywood. The Sacs will give the nod to either Mal Malette (7-5) or Ken Holcombe (8-10).

At San Diego, the Padres will start Red Adams (8-7) against the Oaks' Milo Candini (15-9).

The first week's eliminations are best four out of seven games with the teams switching ball parks after the first three games.

Outfielder Allie Clark of San Diego and pitcher Earl Harritt of Oakland will be allowed to play in the semifinals although they joined their clubs after Aug. 1.

The four teams waived the rule which would have barred them, apparently because the two teams face each other in one bracket of the semis. Neither player will be eligible for the final series if his club makes the grade.

Bill Ezinicki Signs With Maple Leafs

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)—Bashing Bill Ezinicki, a golf pro in summer and a hockey player in winter, Tuesday signed a 1949-50 contract to play with Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League. A native of Winnipeg, Ezinicki plays, right wing.

This news came from the training camp of the Leafs, Stanley Cup winners last season, along with word that Bob Dawes of Saskatoon, Sask., had agreed to terms. Dawes played with Pittsburgh in the American Hockey League last season and joined the Leafs in the Stanley Cup playoffs. It was stated that Bob Solinger of Star City, Sask., acquired in a trade with Cleveland Barons, is expected to sign shortly.

Hunters Urged To Mail Bird Bands

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Fish and Wildlife Service urged Tuesday that duck hunters make special efforts to mail in any bands found on birds they kill this fall.

More than 100,000 water fowl and almost 5,000 mourning doves were banded throughout Alaska, Canada and the United States during the last year.

The agency said returns from banded birds "provide valuable information on the management of this resource."

The band number and information as to when, where and how the bird was taken should be sent to the Bird Banding Office, Patuxent Research Refuge, Laurel, Md.

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Jimmy Jivins, 133½, Cleveland, stopped Clarence Henry, 181, Los Angeles (8).

Harridge To Probe Bosox-Yank Squabble

CHICAGO (UP)—American League president Will Harridge today promised further examination of the squabble between the New York Yankees and Umpire Bill Grieve.

Harridge ordered a $200 fine on Yankee players Cliff Mages and $150 fines on Ralph Houk and Manager Casey Stengel for the violent manner in which they protested the winning-run game Monday in the Boston Red Sox game to apologize to Grieve or face suspension for "directly inferring that Grieve had a bet on the ball game."

The next step was up to Western Union, Harridge said. He was awaiting Mages' apology, first to make sure that it comes at all, and second to determine whether it is satisfactory.

PROTEST HASTY DECISION

Meanwhile, the Yankees protested the league president's decision "as just as hasty and erroneous as was Grieve's decision." That, too, was due for Harridge's scrutiny. He said he will issue a statement today after he receives the communications.

The big dispute came in the eighth inning of the game which sent Boston into the American League lead. Johnny Pesky slid in with what proved to be the winning run, and catcher Houk was there waiting. Umpire Grieve ruled Pesky safe, and the Yankees their storm of protest.

Mages, who did not get into the game, had his most bitter wrangle with Grieve after the game, demanding "how much did you have on the game?"

Yesterday Mages issued this statement which was for Harridge:

"In compliance with the ruling of president William Harridge, I am forwarding my cheque for $200 to the American League office in payment of my fine for alleged misconduct off the field during and after Monday's game."

REMARK OFTEN MADE

"Likewise in compliance with Mr. Harridge's ruling, I would like to explain that my remarks about whether or not Grieve had a bet on the game was not meant as an attack on his honesty. Such a remark is as old as baseball itself and is made often in bench jockeying. If Mr. Grieve believed I meant an attack on his honesty then I would like to take this opportunity to apologize."

Royals In Fourth Straight Win Over Bisons; Gain Final

MONTREAL (BUP)—The Montreal Royals today stood ready for their second straight appearance in the "little world series" after bumping off the Buffalo Bisons in the International League's final playoff series.

The Brooklyn Dodgers' farm hands closed out the best-of-seven series last night with an 8 to 3 victory. It was the fourth straight triumph for Montreal, which lost only the first game to the pennant-winning Bisons.

The Royals, who finished in third place in regular season play, erased a 2 to 1 Buffalo lead in the fifth inning with a two-run rally, then "iced" the game with four runs in the seventh. The Royals' final rally was highlighted by Sammy Jethroe's homer with nose aboard.

Dan Bankhead got credit for the victory, although he required relief by Johnny Van Cuyk in the ninth inning. Clem Hausmann was the loser.

Milwaukee and Indianapolis still are battling it out in the American Association's final playoffs for the right to oppose Montreal in the "little world series." Milwaukee, after losing the first three games, extended the series last night by whipping Indianapolis, 6 to 1.

Black Bear Booked On Wrestling Card

VANCOUVER (CP)—A new "claws" was added Tuesday to promoter Cliff Parker's contract with Pacific coast wrestlers.

Meeting the winner of tonight's contest here between Leo Karlenko and Tony Ross will be a 600-pound black bear, imported from Tennessee for the occasion.

Who knows? Bruin may be the next junior heavyweight champion of the Pacific coast.

Visiting Puck Squads Boast Ex-City Players

Victoria's ice fans will see several familiar faces when the northern division teams of the Pacific Coast Hockey League visit the city this year to engage the Cougars. Some of these will be known by sight while others will be remembered from newspaper accounts reaching here.

Possibly the New Westminster Royals, who battle the Cougars in the league opener at the Royal City on Oct. 8, have on their roster the names most familiar to local puck followers.

Heading the list is Walter "Babe" Pratt, whose name was formerly linked with the Toronto Maple Leafs of the N.H.L. Pratt, recognized as one of the best rearguards in the business, was one of the chief attractions last season with the New Westminster sextette. Pratt will handle the coaching chores for the Royals this year in addition to performing at his regular defence position.

EX-V.M.D.

Maurice Duffy and Dutch Evers, both V.M.D. puckchangers during the war years, are also with the Royals this year, along with Amy Dufault, who will be remembered for his activity with the famous Army squad here. Others not unknown to Victorians are Normie Kirk, former Nanaimo junior ace, and Kenny Ulyot and Bobby Love, both former R.C.A.F. Seahawks performers.

The strong Seattle Ironmen under Frank Dotten, who himself is also known here, will have many outstanding players. Goalie Ron Pickell, who is returning to the Seattle camp, is one of the best netminders in the west. Defencemen Willie Schmidt, formerly with New Westminster, and Pete Tallifer, late of the Portland Eagles are names known to hockey enthusiasts through their rugged style of play.

Rudy Fillon, Pete Kalapaca, George Senick and Joe Medynski were the chief snipers with the Ironmen during the 1948-49 season.

CARSE CANUCK COACH

Vancouver Canucks will also have some well-known figures in their line-up when they visit the city for the first time on Oct. 18. Coach Bill Carse, former N.H.L. and Victoria Army hockeyist, Chuck Millman, former rugged defenceman with the local Navy squad, and defenceman Les Vickery, who was with the R.C.A.F., will be the best known.

Others include Larry Reardon of the well-known family of hockey players, Scotty McPherson, Hermie Gruhn and Bob Balance. Two latter players were among the league's high point-makers last year.

Cougars' Big Three

This could well be named the "brain trust" of the Victoria Cougars Hockey Club. Coach Eddie Wares, right, points out some detail of the Memorial Arena to owner Lester Patrick, left, and business manager Fred Hutchinson as the club opened training for the start of the Pacific Coast Hockey League last night. Cougars will open at New Westminster Oct. 8 and at home against Portland on Monday afternoon, Oct. 10, at 3:30.

C.N.E. Offer May Move Grey Cup Grid Final Into $100,000 Class

If Canadian Rugby Union officials wish to put the Grey Cup in the $100,000 class where it belongs, the Canadian National Exhibition sports field is available. Additional seats can be installed on a week's notice, increasing accommodation from its present 21,000 to at least 30,000 and there's room for another 5,000 or more standing room fans.

Further than that, general manager Elwood Hughes told the Canadian Press in an interview: "We are prepared to leave, laying out of the field to football officials. If they want to move it closer to the stadium (it now is about 100 feet from the nearest paying customers) we are prepared to meet their wishes. We'll leave it up to them."

Hughes' comment to C.P. was the first big break in the year-old battle—since the city-owned $3,000,000 stadium was built—concerning its adaptability to sports, particularly the Dominion football final.

IN C.R.U.'S LAP

The onus now is on the C.R.U. If they want the field for the Nov. 26 game—instead of the 20,000-capacity Varsity Stadium—they need only say so.

The C.R.U. made the first step last February to lift the classic from the poor-relation category when Grey Cup ticket prices were increased to $3, $2.50 and $2, compared to the former scale of $2, $1.50 and $1.

At the same time union officials, led by western Canada representatives, brought about a constitution change which meant in effect the final would continue to be played in Toronto—but not restricted to Varsity Stadium as in previous years.

The ticket-price increase and the potential 35,000-person accommodation compared to Varsity's 20,000 should—if the C.R.U. gives the nod—make everybody happy. After the 1948 Grey Cup, Tom Brook, president of the victorious Calgary Stampeders, said:

"The allowance given us (by the C.R.U.) for the trip and our receipts from the game far from covered the actual cost."

In the interview Hughes figured the stadium's cut would be 25 per cent of the gross gate receipts (Varsity charged $5,200 last year) but he added:

"This is my personal estimate only."

If the C.R.U. decided on the C.N.E. sports field, it should ease one big headache—the acute shortage of tickets. The fellow who follows the finalists during the season should have at least a fighting chance of watching the spectacle. He didn't get it last year in the Calgary-Ottawa Roughriders game.

Cardinals To Accept Series Applications

ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Louis Cardinals will accept orders for World Series tickets beginning Thursday, the club announced Tuesday.

The reserve-seat tickets for games at Sportsman's Park, in the event the Cardinals win the National League pennant, will be sold on a one-game-only basis, two to a customer.

A.B.C. Enforces Ban Against Nisei Team

SEATTLE (AP)—A Japanese-American bowling team was ousted from a Seattle league Tuesday by order of the American Bowling Congress, which insisted on enforcement of its racial ban.

The order, from the A.B.C. executive office in Chicago, said: "A.B.C. membership is available only to white males... A league which permits this unauthorized practice runs the risk of inviting problems which can not be satisfactorily adjusted."

The Nisei team competed in the Boeing Bowling Association. All members are permanent employees of the Boeing Airplane Co.

They promptly declined to make an issue of the case, but association president Jack Bunsey said it was likely that members of this organization would fight the ban against fellow employees.

A conference has been scheduled by the Boeing League directors with Bob Nelson, A.B.C. representative in this area.

May Start Hockey Coaching In Schools

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP)—Johnny Gottselig, former coach of the Chicago Black Hawks of the N.H.L., suggested in an address Tuesday before a service club (Rotary) that the time is coming when greater emphasis will be placed on hockey coaching in Canadian schools.

Attending Hawks' western amateur hockey school here, Gottselig said he hoped the Hawks would be the first big league club to introduce hockey coaching in Canadian schools.

The Black Hawk executive said hockey is fast becoming a universal game, and predicted it if had as long a schedule, the N.H.L. would outdraw major league baseball.

Mohawks New Name Of Kansas City Club

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Kansas City's entry in the United States Hockey League last night had its name changed from the Plamors to the Mohawks.

The name Mohawks was submitted by a Kansas City hockey fan, Miss Bess Johnson, who has missed only six games in the last five seasons.

Johnny Ubriaco Goes To Monarchs

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Los Angeles Monarchs of the Pacific Coast Hockey League Tuesday acquired scoring star Johnny Ubriaco from Tulsa Oilers of the United States Hockey League.

Ubriaco played 36 games for the Monarchs last year, scoring 18 goals and 21 assists for 39 points before he was recalled by Tulsa. Charli Cord, Monarch owner, said there will be no recall this season.

Ubriaco comes from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

CHAMBERLAIN AMATEUR

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (UP)—Don Sala, 132½, Boston, outpointed Mal Evans, 125, New Bedford (8).

Rugby, Basketball On Prep Sport Bill

Interhigh athletes will display their talent on the rugby field and the maple court during the fall term.

Junior and senior rugby and junior basketball schedules are expected to get under way within the next two weeks, and will likely continue until mid-December, it was announced today by officials of the boys' interhigh sports council.

Junior and senior soccer and senior basketball will be played in early 1950.

Ken Brown of Mount View High School was elected president of the sports council for the 1949-50 term at a recent meeting. He succeeds Laurie Wallace of Victoria High. Other officers elected were: vice-president, Jack Fouracre, Central Junior High; secretary, Jim Muir, Mount Douglas High, and publicity director, Bill Reid, Esquimalt High.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—A glum-looking Casey Stengel had just received word that he, Ralph Houk and Cliff Mape had been fined for Monday's ruckus with umpire Bill Grieve at the Stadium. A Grievous error, somebody called it.

"I didn't see the play at all," Casey confided hoarsely. "I was back in the runway when somebody told me there was something going on out there. Then they fine me for coming out to see what had happened. It was the first time I was fined this season and we've only had one man put out of a game."

A photographer asked the Yankee manager and the two players to pose studying pictures of the disputed play. Casey assented budgingly. "It won't get me run back," he said.

SUBWAY SLIDE

Tommy Henrich came along for a look at the photos and insisted Houk had blocked the plate against Johnny Pesky's slide. "There's only one player who could have slid under that glove," Tommy argued, "and he's a Yankee—Mole."

YOGI GRIEVES

Although Mape sent the required telegram in answer to proxy Will Harridge's demand for a public apology, a lot of guys at Yankee Stadium thought he wasted words. He should have copied Yogi Berra, one scribe said, "and wired Grieve: 'I'm sorry you made this apology necessary.'"

To Stage Benefit For Baz Bastien

NEW YORK (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs will play Pittsburgh Hornets, in a "Baz Bastien Night" benefit hockey game in Pittsburgh Oct. 17, it was announced Thursday.

All proceeds from the game will go to Bastien, former star Pittsburgh goalie blinded in one eye as a result of an injury suffered during practice earlier this month. Bastien's eye was removed in an operation following the injury.

Mill Owners Win Case Against Insurance Firm

A Supreme Court judgment ordering the Glen Falls Insurance Company to pay $5,000 in fire insurance to partners of a portable sawmill at Alouette Lake, 40 miles east of Vancouver, was upheld by the Court of Appeal.

The insurance company appealed the judgment of Mr. Justice M. Coady who ordered the firm to pay the insurance to H. E. and W. T. Smith, mill partners.

The company in its appeal claimed the mill burned down March 6, 1947, 51 days after the written contract had expired. W. H. Campbell, lawyer for the Smiths, argued that there had been an oral agreement between the insurance company and the mill owners. He claimed the oral agreement was valid and constituted a "repeat performance" of the way the contract had been procured the year before.

The court upheld his views.

Sales Tax Chief Leaves On Tour

L. F. Detwiler, head of the B.C. government's sales tax commission, left Victoria today for the east to study sales tax collection techniques elsewhere and to confer with mail order houses officials.

He will probably be away more than a week. He will first stop over at Regina to study the Saskatchewan sales tax collection facilities and then will proceed to the head offices of various large mail order houses which collect considerable sums of sales tax for British Columbia.

With the mail order house, Mr. Detwiler will discuss their problems and consider any suggestions which officials might have to make. This phase of his visit is described as a public relations job.

Judge Adjourns Eviction Case Until Thursday

The Crown's application for the immediate eviction of Diggon-Hibben Ltd. from the new post office site which was expropriated by the Department of Public Works in 1946, was adjourned by Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane until Thursday.

In adjourning the case, the judge urged both sides to reach a compromise agreement.

J. G. Rutman, counsel for the Crown, objected to the suggestion of a compromise on the grounds that the firm had adequate time to move from its present premises to its new building at the intersection of Government and Johnson Streets.

The lawyer pointed out that he had received no instructions from the government to accept a compromise. He said "all evidence of good intentions and excuses were irrelevant."

"All the Crown has to do is to show it is entitled to possession," he said in pointing out that the company's delay in moving from the Crown property was costing the government money.

Mr. Rutman pointed out the firm had done very little towards moving since the property was expropriated by the Crown.

He also pointed out that the firm had spent two years on government property without any expenses for taxes, rent, maintenance and insurance.

J. A. Byers, counsel for the company, claimed the Department of Public Works should not have given the contractor permission to start tearing down buildings in the block until it had made sure "the way was clear."

He pointed out that the firm had difficulties in finding a building to move to.

J. W. Laughton, 526 Toronto Street, reported to city police today that two rear view mirrors were stolen from his 1949 model sedan Tuesday night between 7 and 8. Car was parked opposite the owner's address.

Jap Fleets Prepare For Annual Whaling

TOKYO (UP)—Preparations are being made for the departure in early November of Japan's fourth postwar whaling expedition to the Antarctic, authorized by General MacArthur's headquarters.

Two separate fleets will comprise the expedition as in the past three seasons, and the same two companies—Taiyo Fisheries Company and the Nippon Suisan Company—will direct operations.

Plans call for the same number—29 vessels—that made the last expedition. The goal is virtually the same. In the whaling period which started Dec. 15, 1948, and ended March 25, 1949, 1,645 whales were killed.

Allied personnel again will accompany the two fleets as supervisors to preclude violations of international whaling agreements. Four allied supervisors made the trip to the Antarctic during the last season.

New Instrument Catches Radio Waves Off Moon

GENOA (UP)—Adelmo Landini, a radio technician, who learned his trade under Guglielmo Marconi, has patented in Italy a system of radio communications based on the reflection of short waves off the moon.

His patent application states that his system is the result of 19 years of research, which began in July, 1930. He and Marconi noticed during their experiments that the moon was sometimes sending back short-wave broadcasts from Rio de Janeiro.

Landini said he and Marconi went to work on the problem, attempting to work out a system to make short wave broadcasts carry farther with clearer signals. He said they worked on a sample channel from Rome to the southern tip of Argentina, with the moon acting as a sort of relay station for the short wave signal.

RESEARCH COMPLETED

"Marconi died before he could complete his research on the phenomenon we had noted that July," Landini said. "But I went on working alone and after 19 years worked out what I call a new system of radio communications for both medium and long distances, based on micro waves reflected from the moon." Landini said that with his system, the reception in Italy of signals from the Antipodes has been "extremely easy" and added:

"With my system, broadcasts from Sydney, Australia, or Buenos Aires or New York, beamed at the moon and then back to earth, will be picked up without difficulty."

Landini's system depends on an instrument which can maintain radio transmitters constantly aimed at the moon. The scientist said cautiously that he believed his system would work for radio-telephone communications and television.

To skeptics he pointed to U.S. army researchers who in the postwar period have been able to "bounce" radar signals off the moon and record them back on earth with an "echo."

U.S. Doctor Foresees 120-Year Life Span

CLEVELAND (UP)—A Cleveland doctor has predicted that all infectious diseases will be eliminated "in the near future" and after that the normal life span of 64 years will rise to about 120 years.

Dr. Morris Schaeffer, director of the Contagious Diseases Division of City Hospital, said,

"Elimination of infectious diseases is on the way through specific drugs such as penicillin, streptomycin, aureomycin and other anti-biotic drugs now being worked."

He added, "At the same time, new immunizing procedures, such as already practically have eliminated smallpox and diphtheria, will help in this process, first probably with yellow fever, and then possibly with polio."

"Both of these things tie in with lengthening the life span. There is no reason the life span cannot be raised to at least 120

Eleanor Powell Acts In Movie With Esther Williams

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Eleanor Powell, who tapped her way through many a musical a few years back, may make a permanent thing of her film return. The long-stemmed tapster is set for a guest appearance in "Duchess of Idaho" with Esther Williams. Her old home lot also wants her to sign on for one picture a year for the future.

This information comes from her husband, Glenn Ford, on "The White Tower" set. He next returns to his alma mater, Columbia. Glenn, a native of Port Neuf, Que., turned down a chance to co-star with Lana Turner in "A Life of Her Own." He didn't like the role. That's getting to be a problem picture, what with Lana reported balking at doing it, too.

GARFIELD PLANS

John Garfield will skip doing a Broadway show this season. He will take on another picture after "The Big Fall" and produce his own "The Italian Story" in Italy next summer. John is still a commuter from New York, says it gives him a fresher approach to movies not to live here. He went into a hospital Sept. 25 for a check-up after a dizzy spell. Nothing serious, the studio said.

Richard Conte is the latest to feature male cheesecake in ads for his latest picture. He joins Vic Mature, Alan Ladd, Douglas Fairbanks Jr. and other barechested stars. If the trend keeps up, young actors won't be asked "can you act?" but "let's see your chest."

SHORTS ON STARS

Red Skelton must be training for his future film. "Watch the Birdie." Was taking flash photos all over the Chanteclair party following Ed Wynn's telecast. Red has a year and a half left of his studio contract and is well lined up with vehicles. They are "Yellow Cab Man," "Three Little Words," a Lassie film "Birdie," "How to Win Friends and Influence People" and "Joe Aladdin." Vic Mature was asked about reports of trouble at home. "Nothing unusual for a guy like me," he replied. "I'd say it was par for the course."

Blind Pianist Still Can Recall Prewar Telephone Numbers

LONDON (CP)—No telephone directory was needed when blind pianist Alec Templeton returned to London to look up old friends. Despite all that has happened since Templeton left Britain for the United States in 1935, the dark, good-humored entertainer still had a flock of prewar phone numbers filed in his memory. One was that of an elderly vaudeville comedian he knew 15 years ago. Alec called the number soon after his arrival—but the number had disappeared with its user, who died in obscurity during the war.

Fortunately five or six other numbers still produced the voices of old friends, who were invited to a party given by Templeton and his wife, Julie. In London, Templeton also demonstrated his remarkable faculty for remembering names and voices. At a London theatre he asked for a call boy he last met in 1935. The call boy was still there—but he had since been promoted to stage doorman. "I'd know your voice anywhere," Templeton told the surprised doorman, as they shook hands enthusiastically.

Taking his old music teacher, 70-year-old Margaret Humphrey, to the Edinburgh Music Festival, Alec was so thrilled by the music of the Scottish pipers he bought a set of pipes for his own use. "I'm going to practice hard on them when I get back home," he said.

Bacon Production Without Milk Diet Now Said Possible

MONTREAL (BUP)—It has been argued pro and con for many years, but at last it has been proved. Pigs can grow big and produce excellent quality bacon without the baby diet of milk.

It took 21 years for Professor E. C. Crampton to design a milkless diet for pigs, but now he says he has one that will keep the pigs happy and satisfy a farmer who was never able to afford such pig food.

The new diet does away with the use of milk, skimmed milk or any milk products. It uses some 12 scientific foods, including grains, salt, limestone, fish oils, meat bone and fish meals and other ingredients designed to make weight and desired pounds of exportable bacon.

MARKET FOR GRAIN

Prof. Crampton says that diet uses large amounts of Canadian grains. He claims it will help Canada meet her export market bacon contracts and probably help to widen the possible sales outside Canada.

Prof. Crampton will leave here this month as a delegate to the British Commonwealth scientific conference, where he will outline his diet studies.

The professor was recently awarded $1,000 by the U.S. feed manufacturers' nutrition council in recognition of his outstanding contributions to animal nutrition research.

He is chairman of the department of nutrition at Macdonald College here.

Oysters' Comfort Quest Of Science

BURNHAM-ON-CROUCH, Essex, Eng. (CP)—In a laboratory here scientists from the ministry of agriculture and fisheries are trying to save oyster culture in the district's once-famous beds.

"There are many things that annoy an oyster," an official said. "They must have suitable beds to lie in, and even then they may be smothered in bed by a pest known as the American slipper limpet."

Another threat to the oyster is the American oyster drill, a small which bores holes into the young oyster and eat it. But it was the severe winters of 1939-40 and 1946-47 which did the most serious damage. Beds worth thousands of pounds were practically wiped out.

"The mortality in 1946-47 was more than 90 per cent," said Knight Jones, senior naturalist at the Burnham laboratory, "and in upper reaches of the river Crouch it was 100 per cent."

Knight Jones and his staff are laying seed oysters in the beds from an experimental station at Conway.

"We have laid 100,000 a year for the last two years, and next year we shall lay 500,000 from Brittany."

COUNTY CLUB

Principal Characters:

ARTHUR DOLLIMORE: A very modern product of the Metropolitan Police College.
SUPERINTENDENT DUCROS: An older and more experienced police officer.
SILAS ROLLITER: A solicitor whose knowledge of the law enables him to ignore it for a time.
MRS. LEWIN: The wealthy widow of a South African magnate.
MARY STENNING: Her young secretary and companion.
MONTY FERNANDEZ: Who manages the Mossford County Club—suave and cosmopolitan.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS

SUPERINTENDENT DUCROS and STATION INSPECTOR DOLLIMORE arrive as guests at the Mossford County Club, run by MONTY FERNANDEZ, in what was once a gracious English manor house. They have been sent to track FLASH CARDWELL, a former associate of FERNANDEZ, who has arrived in Britain from America and is wanted by the police. On the night of their arrival, MRS. LEWIN is found murdered in her room. The detective duo, on the point of examining MARY STENNING, they call at her door.

(NOW READ ON)

INSTALLMENT 16

"WHO IS THERE?" they heard her voice.

"Superintendent DUCROS. Can you come to the door, Miss Stenning, for a moment?"

"I haven't been to bed," she said as she opened the door.

"Sorry to worry you again, Miss Stenning, but Inspector Dollimore said you spoke about a will."

"I think I did mention it. I wrote to Mr. Rolliter—on Mrs. Lewin's instructions—asking him to come down, and I knew that it was to make a will. It was witnessed by two of the servants."

"You didn't witness it?"

"No. Mr. Rolliter said I wasn't to. Apparently Mrs. Lewin had mentioned me in it."

"You're quite positive?"

"I think so. I'm positive that she meant to make a will, and that he came down to do it. And that when it was done it was witnessed by two of the maids."

"Do you know where it is?"

"No. I don't. Mrs. Lewin may have sent it to her bank. Or Mr. Rolliter may have taken it with him."

"Thank you very much. And if I might give you a word of advice, I should try and get some sleep."

"It's all so dreadful!" she said with a shudder.

"If anything else occurs to you, Miss Stenning, which you think may help us," Dollimore said, "I'm sure you'll let us know."

"Of course, I will."

"You don't happen to know where that son was staying in Paris?"

"No. He never wrote to his mother."

"You actually saw him?"

"Only once. He called on me in London."

"What kind of man was he?"

"Dark hair and a pasty complexion. A wash-out, I'm afraid."

"Now, I echo the Superintendent's advice and urge you to get some sleep. Good-night!"

Their eyes met for a moment, and Dollimore held out his hand.

"Good-night!" he said again, and the two men turned to the door.

"That does make you wonder," said Ducros.

"There's another point. It's of minor importance, but it does show the type of people we're up against. You remember that the Pachmann woman insisted that she had never met Fernandez before she came to this place?"

"Yes."

"He told me that he had known her for several years in New York."

"I don't see that's important."

"Only that she was lying. People don't lie like that if they have nothing to hide. If I'd put the same question to Miss Stenning, she would have told the truth. I'm sure, Chief, that we've found out all that we are likely to find out in the club. We've got to get hold of the son and the man McKenzie—and the will—unless it's been destroyed. Why not tackle Rolliter about the will right off?"

"As you say. You have a shot at it. There he is still."

"Can you spare us another minute or so, Mr. Rolliter?" Dollimore asked, as they passed the table where Fernandez and the solicitor were still sitting.

"Surely! In the office?"

"Please!"

"The POLICE AGREE"

The local inspector was already there, yawning.

"You sleep, old chap, if you wish to," Ducros suggested.

"Just see that your men are all awake and arrange for their relief—for the moment they should stay where they are."

"Right! I'll be up early in the morning."

There's one point, Mr. Rolliter. I think you said that there was no will, I believe.

"As far as I know, I said," the solicitor replied. "As a matter of fact I drew up one for Mrs. Lewin some few weeks ago, but she wrote me a day or so later and said that she had altered her mind and destroyed it. I have no reason to doubt that she did."

"I see," said Dollimore. "Do you remember the terms of that will?"

"Yes. The greater part of the estate went to various charities. An annuity to the son—I think the existing sum was to remain unaltered—and an annuity to Miss Stenning—a smallish one. I left the will with Mrs. Lewin. If it isn't in her room or with her bankers, she has—presumably—destroyed it. It is of the first importance to find out whether she did, in fact destroy it."

"Why didn't you mention it when I spoke about it before?" Ducros asked.

"I assumed that she had done what she said she meant to do and destroyed it, and there was no will in existence."

"Thank you, Mr. Rolliter. We shall probably be glad of a few words with you in the morning."

"Then I will say good-night. I'm half asleep as it is! Again, for a moment, that intent eye rested on Dollimore as its owner turned to the door."

The two officials watched each other in silence as the door closed behind the solicitor.

"Well?" demanded Dollimore at length.

"He was lying," said Ducros, "or I'm a Dutchman. But he's as sharp as a needle. He knew we had found out about the will he drew up."

"I agree. He saw us go up to Miss Stenning's room and guessed why. He may be a crook, and a dangerous one, but he's got it above the ears all right."

"Look at the time!" exclaimed Ducros. "I'm for an hour's rest."

"Same here."

"You picked up a few little trifles at that new-fangled college, my lad," Ducros said with reluctant admiration.

"Thank you for those kind words," said Dollimore with a grin. "But we're up against a very nasty bunch here, I'm afraid."

"A very nasty bunch," the Superintendent echoed.

"For once the old and the new schools were in agreement."

MARY STENNING REAPPEARS

The difference in temperament between Superintendent Ducros, experienced and mature, and Station Inspector Dollimore, young and enthusiastic, was clearly shown during the few hours which elapsed before they took up the hunt again. Ducros was asleep almost at once, but Dollimore remained awake for some considerable time, turning over the events of the night in his active mind. There is, of course, a certain amount to be said for both methods.

When the two men met on the Sunday morning in the sunlit breakfast room, the room seemed strangely quiet. It was as if a blight had fallen on the club which the brightness of the morning made even more obvious. The servants moved silently as though afraid of making a sound; everyone knew, of course, that Ducros and Dollimore were in charge, could send for them and question them at any time.

The police officers' table was in one of the windows, and they were able to talk without fear of being overheard.

There were very few visitors there, and they glanced curiously at the two men as they crossed to the table in the window. Of Fernandez and Rolliter there was no sign. Nor, as Dollimore noticed, was Mary Stenning down. "The lads from the fingerprint department apparently got a lot of stuff to be going on with," said Ducros as he unfolded his napkin.

"They won't find much that matters," said Dollimore. "The job was done by a professional crook and he'd use gloves."

Ducros nodded. "In the excitement we've rather overlooked the reason we came here in the first place," he said.

"Flash Cardew? It's a job after his own heart as you said. This grapefruit is good."

"You're welcome. Bacon and eggs does me."

"I was thinking it over last night," Dollimore said. "People like the ones we're dealing with don't run risks for a few rings. They're after far bigger game."

"Go on," Ducros said evenly. "I can eat and listen."

"What about this for a theory? Rolliter is a knave..."

"We shall learn about that presently," Ducros put in. "I sent a chit with the fingerprint people this morning. There should be a 'phone message very soon."

"He's a knave," Dollimore resumed. "He and the gang have got hold of that son in Paris—a waster. Mrs. Lewin dies—ostensibly murdered for the sake of her jewellery. Her money goes to the son—that is to the gang who probably have him in their power. The son authorizes Rolliter to go ahead with the administration of the estate. We've got to get hold of that son as I see it, the whole case pivots on him."

"He's on his way here."

"I wonder."

"You heard what Rolliter said," Dollimore nodded. "Still I shall be surprised if he turns up—or, rather if we're allowed to see him. He's got a water-tight alibi unless we can upset it. After all, neither Fernandez nor the solicitor stand to gain by her death—apart from the son. By the way the nephew, Parminter, is on the 'phone. Shall I ask him to come here?"

"I suppose so. Frankly, I'm in the dark. I don't know what else to suggest. As far as clues go there aren't any. Not what you might call clues."

"Of course there aren't. The job was done by people who don't leave clues all over the place—unless they're designed to lead us up the garden."

"That little girl isn't down yet, apparently."

"No. I was wondering about her. I hope she's all right. I'll 'phone Parminter then."

"You've finished your breakfast?" Ducros asked, helping himself to another slice of toast.

"Yes. And it would be better for your figure if you had as well," Dollimore said with a smile.

Parminter was unaware of what had happened, but apparently took the news very calmly. "I'll come at once. I shall be over within half an hour."

"Thank you."

As Dollimore turned from the 'phone he saw Mary Stenning coming down the stairs. She was pale, but appeared to be quite composed.

8th Anti-Aircraft Unit To Hold Joint Exercises With R.C.A.F.

Commencing next month, the local 8th anti-aircraft reserve unit will begin a series of joint exercises with No. 442, city of Vancouver, auxiliary squadron of the R.C.A.F.

These exercises will be started on the basis of communication and plotting, and will lead finally to a series of full-scale air attacks on the southern section of Vancouver Island by the R.C.A.F. squadron.

The 8th anti-aircraft unit's part in the exercises will be to detect and plot the presence of all aircraft, either friendly or otherwise, and pass the information to defence units in this area. All the latest type of radar and radio equipment necessary for such exercises has been obtained by the "ack-ack" unit.

Training courses in radar, radio, anti-aircraft plotting and telecommunications will be inaugurated here every Tuesday and Friday nights at 8 by the 8th anti-aircraft unit, which is currently on a drive for recruits. Tuesday sessions will be held at Work Point Barracks. Friday meetings are scheduled at the Bay Street Armories.

Raid-blocks, depicting the identity, number, height and other valuable information of the aircraft sighted, are plotted on a large map of Vancouver Island and the surrounding area by Sgt. Chorlton, left, and Sgt. M. J. McDougall.

Shift Of Power In Health Services

WINNIPEG (B.U.P.)—The balance of power in health services would soon be shifted from the Provincial to the Dominion government, General Secretary Dr. T. C. Routley, Canadian Medical Association, told the Manitoba Association.

Routley said that Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent had stated that during the Dominion-Provincial conference on constitutional changes no attempt would be made by the federal government to take over the power of the province in respect to education or language.

"However, the Prime Minister made no mention of health, which is now under the jurisdiction of the provinces," Routley said.

Routley suggested that a "non-political commission" should supervise the government's health planning.

Garage And Truck Destroyed In Saanich Blaze

Fire of unknown origin this morning completely destroyed a garage and the 1937 model one-ton truck at the home of John L. Gerson, Box 2233 Torquay Drive, Saanich fire department reported.

According to firemen the blaze must have been going for some time before being discovered. The explosion of the gas tank awakened Mr. Gerson at 5:34. He immediately telephoned the fire department. A crew under Lieut. Thomas Jennings attended, but they were unable to save the garage.

Firemen concentrated efforts on protecting the home, located about 18 feet away. The heat scorched the side of the house.

Restaurant Head Says Meal Prices To Remain Same

Prices of restaurant meals will remain the same until there is a decrease in the cost of food products, George F. Heckman, national president of the Canadian Restaurant Association, said on his arrival in Victoria Tuesday.

Mr. Heckman, who has been touring Canada meeting members of the association, said the restaurant industry had suffered greatly because of the high cost of food. "Since the war the industry has had the lowest net return in years," he said.

In his opinion the prices of food commodities in western Canada were slightly lower than in the east.

Mr. Heckman said the main object of the restaurant association was to improve the restaurant industry with regards to meals, service and standard of cleanliness.

"This year we served over a billion meals as compared with 200,000,000 meals served in 1937," he said in pointing out the growth of the restaurant business.

He said he was particularly pleased to hear that the Victoria branch of the association was holding a training course for restaurant employees between Oct. 10 and 15.

"Schools on front-end management of restaurants are necessary," he said. "Waitresses should be trained."

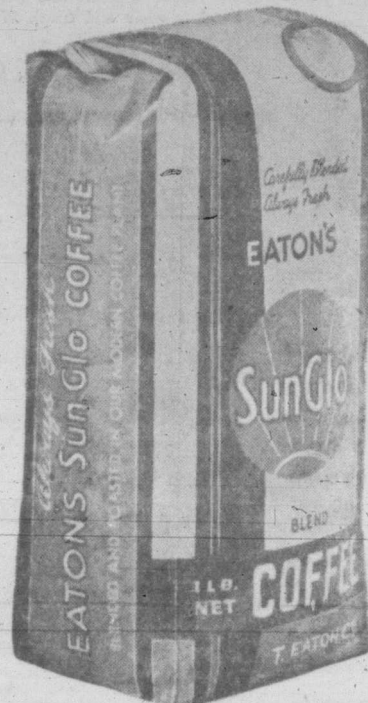

On his arrival here, Mr. Heckman was greeted by the executive of the Victoria branch. Among the group were R. S. Porter, president; T. Kelway, vice-president; Mrs. D. Guelpa, T. Papanos and J. E. Cooper.

New Yorkers Stay In Race By Beating A's

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees blew a four-run lead today but came back with three runs in the seventh inning to defeat Philadelphia Athletics 7 to 5 and cut Boston Red Sox' American League lead to half a game. The Red Sox meet the tail-end Senators in Washington tonight.

The Yanks piled up a 4 to 0 lead going into the seventh when the A's rallied and scored five runs to rout Tommy Byrne and Fred Sanford. Joe Page ended the rally by getting Sam Chapman to hit into a double play.

New York came back in its half of the seventh with three runs against Lefty Alex Kellner to win. Phil Rizzuto successfully executed the squeeze play to score Hank Bauer with the tie-breaking run. Kellner then balked home Jerry Coleman with the seventh and final run.

Allie Reynolds hurled the last two innings and ended the game in a blaze of glory.

Succeeds Husband As Harbor Master

PRINCE RUPERT (BUP)—Canada's only woman harbor master officially takes over at Prince Rupert Harbor October 4. The woman with the distinctive occupation is Mrs. Dorothy Elfert, a middle-aged Scot with an insatiable love of the sea.

Her appointment as Prince Rupert harbor master was made by the Department of Transport at Ottawa. Her husband, Capt. J. R. Elfert, held the post from 1927 until his death earlier this year.

Bogart Too Tough For High Life Night Club

NEW YORK (AP)—The swank El Morocco night club today posted a "keep out" sign for tough guy Humphrey Bogart of the films after two pretty girls got pushed around in a fracas involving Bogey and two toy pandas, a modern version of the Teddy bear.

This sounds confusing. It is. All that's really clear is that Bogart and a waggish pal, Bill Seaman, showed up at El Morocco late at night—not with their wives but with the pandas.

"Meet our girl friends," they announced.

All went well until fashion model Robin Roberts playfully picked up one of the pandas. Robin got shoved and wound up on the club's thick carpet.

Glamorous girl Peggy Rabe also made a pass at a panda. She got shoved, too. Her escort, Johnny Jelfe, didn't like it. Hot words were exchanged. Somebody smashed a dinner plate over Jelfe's shoulders.

Bouncers restored order and escorted Bogart and Seaman to the sidewalk, pandas and all.

"Mr. Bogart no longer will be admitted," El Morocco said today.

Bogart, here between movies with wife Lauren Bacall, could not be located.

Games Rained Out

Two games that might decide the National League pennant race were postponed by rain today. The league-leading St. Louis Cardinals were to have met Pittsburgh in the Steel City while Brooklyn Dodgers, trailing by one game, were rained out at Boston. Replays were scheduled for tomorrow.
